HOME CITY PREPARES
GIANT CELEBRATION.

Friedrichshafen, Germany, September 3.—(AP)—German federal, state and city authorities today put the finishing touches to the program to give the officers and crew of the Graf Zeppelin the greatest welcome they ever received.

The booming of cannon was to herald the sighting of the dirigible.
Officers, crew and passengers are parade through the festooned main streets in decorated automobiles supplied by the German Touring Club, which has sent 8,000 cars to Friedrichshafen from all parts of Germany.
Some 50,000 visitors are here to welcome the heroes but only a chosen few were admitted to the air field itself.

Friedrichshafen is full of notables and the problem of housing them causes the greatest worry to the burgomaster and his assistants.
Among the early arrivals was the American ambassador, Jacob Gould Schurman.

Reservations also were made for Ambassador Nagatoka of Japan. When David Lloyd George, ex-prime minister of Great Britain, telephoned from the Black Forest yesterday for accommodations for an English party of 10, the management of the Kurgarten hotel regretfully informed him there was not a single room left.

The rapidly increasing holiday spirit of the town made many conclude not to go to bed at all but to give themselves over to merry-making until the arrival of the dirigible.

Japanese lanterns or colored electric bulbs illumined the beer gardens of the hotels and inns over which national, state and city flags fluttered in the breeze. The bands alternated patriotic airs with Viennese waltzes.

In Berlin to celebrate the return of the Zeppelin the Prussian and republican governments ordered flags displayed on all government and municipal buildings on Wednesday.

GAY PARTY HELD OVER FRANCE.

Aboard the S. S. America, at Sea, September 3.—(United News).—The dirigible Graf Zeppelin, which has been in communication with ships at sea at various times during its transatlantic flight, continued to converse by radio tonight as it flew over France.

With a gay party in progress in the luxurious cabins of the Graf Zeppelin, its radio operator reported to the S.

WATCHES OF TECH
STUDENTS STOLEN
DURING PRACTICE

Three valuable gold watches, one a trophy of Georgia Tech's great football victory over California, were stolen Tuesday afternoon from the locker rooms at Tech, according to reports made to police.

The Rose Bowl trophy was the property of Captain H. W. Robinson, member of the coaching staff, while the other losers were Bob McKinney and C. F. Verick, aspirants for places on the Golden Tornado of 1929.

Police and officials are inclined to believe that the thefts were the work of a youngster, who, selecting a time when the football squad was at practice and the locker rooms empty, crawled through a window and rifled
the clothes of the absent gridlers.

England's Premier Announces Accord
With U. S. on Navy

MacDonald Tells League
Two Nations Have Practically Settled Points at Issue on Disarmament.

Geneva, September 3.—(AP)—Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald, of Great Britain, today told the assembly of the League of Nations that a preliminary understanding on naval matters had been reached with the United States on 17 out of 20 disputed points.

His auditors applauded vigorously when he announced that the Anglo-American accord would be more than a mere agreement as to naval ratios and would be a document which will establish peace.

With great earnestness Mr. Mac-Donald stated that the British government declines absolutely to build up a navy against the United States.

He added: "The United States can take that—I think I might call it—as a last word, because it is not only the word of the labor government, it is also the word of its predecessors, the conservative government."

The British premier insisted that the only purpose was to get an agreement with the United States which would be preliminary to summoning a five-power conference and that the other powers would be as free to make their proposals as though no conversations had taken place between Great Britain and the United States.

Mr. MacDonald said he did not want to hazard a promise, but that he thought an announcement as to definite results of the proposed naval agreement could be made before the present assembly terminates.

"An agreement will make us free agents to promote naval disarmament of the world."

At another point in his address he said that one of the greatest risks of war is that "some of us are too heavily armed." He said the problem of disarmament was a problem of disarmament with undivided minds.
Still, the risks of war breaking out is now much less than is the hope of peace.

He emphasized that the Anglo-American negotiations are in no way a conspiracy against other nations.
He said the measure of the problem of disarmament is the measure of the British premier fulfilled the expectations of the delegates. Not only did he make the most positive statement that has yet been made, but he dwelt at some length on other uppermost international questions, such as the relation of the Kellogg anti-war pact.

SHORTAGE IS FOUND IN COLUMBUS BANK

Accounts of Vice President, Dead by Own Hand, Show Discrepancy of $92,184.43.

Columbus, Ga., September 3.—(AP)— A discrepancy of $92,184.43 in the accounts of Henry B. Crowell, vice-president of the Columbus Bank and Trust Company, who ended his life a week ago, was announced today by W. C. Bradley, president, and H. B.
Patterson, treasurer of the institution.

The announcement said the shortage had been confirmed by auditors and that the board of directors had authorized the statement to depositors, shareholders and patrons of the bank.

Crowell left a memorandum detailing the various funds which he used without authority, and went on to say that $100,000 bond had been ordered paid into the bank's funds by the board pending a final settlement with surety companies.

It was said the auditors had been going over the bank's books particularly with reference to Crowell's accounts for several days, and that as soon as their findings were in shape the board met and authorized a statement.

The vice-president's body was found in the backyard of his home around midnight last Wednesday with a bullet wound in the head and a pistol nearby.

J. J. Pease, vice president of the Third National Bank of Columbus, was elected vice president of the Columbus Bank and Trust Company to succeed Crowell, at a meeting of the board of directors of the bank.

JOINT COMMITTEE
APPROVES LEASE OF CITY HALL SITE

Council Called To Meet Thursday To Consider Proposal Offered by C.
F. Palmer, Inc.

Lease of the present city hall site by Palmer, Inc., for a period of 50 years with an option to renew the privilege for another 49 years will be considered by city council at a special session to begin at 3 o'clock
Thursday afternoon, it was announced Tuesday by Mayor I. N. Ragsdale following action of a joint committee of council Tuesday in returning a favorable report on the proposal. The tract is located at Forsyth and Marietta streets.

Councilman Wiley L. Moore, of the seventh ward and chairman of the finance committee of council, presided at the meeting of the joint committee Tuesday afternoon. It was composed of members of the finance committee, the special city hall committee and the buildings and grounds committee of city council.

Many prominent Atlantans were among those who spoke on the proposed lease. Mayor Ragsdale also attended the session.

Vote on the proposal was 10 for and two against. Councilmen Harry York, of the sixth ward, and George R. Lyle, of the eleventh, casting the dissenting votes. Mr. York announced that he would take a minority report to council and fight the lease on the floor of council on the theory that the bid total is insufficient for the property. If council approves the lease he will file notice of reconsideration.

Palmer Proposal.
Palmer has agreed to pay the city $250,000 for the present city hall site for a period of 50 years with an option to renew for another 49 years at $65,000 a year, and at the expiration of the second lease for another 35 years at $75,000 annually. The total rental $5,730,000 for the 99 years.

Speakers praised the proposal and others scored it at the session of the committee Tuesday afternoon, but a large majority declared it was a good proposal for the city.

Mr. Palmer, of Palmer, Inc., declared that his clients propose to erect a structure costing at least $1,000,000 on the site, and that the figure may be as high as $3,000,000.

He declared that his associates have worked hard to get the contract in shape, and added he does not believe the city will secure a more advantageous offer.

James L. Ladd proposed.
Bolling Jones also urged acceptance of the proposal as the best for the city and the territory in which it is located. Included among other speakers were William Lieberman, Forest Greene, Ivan Allen, and E. Rivers, all of whom urged acceptance of the bid.

A. D. Greenfield expressed the belief that the city should not lease the property for more than 30 years.
"I placed a greater valuation on the property than some of my associates," he said. "I believe the city can get a better bid."

Former Councilman A. J. Orme declared he believed a lease which would bring a valuable and lasting improvement to the property would react to bolster property values in the vicinity. He added that he had not studied the lease, and therefore, was not in a position to render an opinion as to whether it was a good offer.

"Never Get Better Offer."
Mr. Jones declared the city would never get a better offer for the tract, and he was backed in his belief by Mr. Lieberman, Mr. Rivers, Mr. Allen and Mr. Greene.

Councilman Moore, Howard C. Mc-Cutcheon, of the second ward and chairman of the special city hall committee; Mr. Ragsdale, E. Graham West, city controller, and other members of the joint committee urged its acceptance, while Mr. York, who is a member of the finance committee of council, and Councilman Lyle, chairman of the buildings and grounds committee of council, fought its sanction.

Mr. Palmer has served notice that his clients must know whether the city will accept the lease by midnight
Thursday night.

If the paper is held up in council as Mr. York announced he will do, Mr. Palmer will seek an extension of time, provided council votes to award the lease contract, it was indicated.

HAS 5 PASSENGERS

Albuquerque, N. M., September 3.— (AP)—A transcontinental air transport plane which left here this morning for Los Angeles had not been reported since passing over Grants, N. M. It was learned at the airport here tonight the aircraft was unreported at Kingham, Ariz., the next point on the line. The plane carried five passengers.

ECKENER INVITED TO INSPECT CITY
AS ZEP TERMINUS

Goodyear Head Also Asked To View Atlanta's Facilities in Proposed Trans-Ocean Service.

With a view to having an inspection of Atlanta's advantages as a possible site for the eastern terminus of the proposed trans-Atlantic dirigible service, invitations have been extended on behalf of the state, the city and a number of civic organizations to Dr.
Hugo Eckener and P. W. Litchfield, president of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company, to visit here prior to the return of the Graf commander to Germany.

Telegrams were sent to both following a meeting at the Chamber of Commerce Tuesday afternoon which was attended by representatives of the Chamber of Commerce, Junior Chamber of Commerce, local N. A. A. Chapter, Atlanta Foreign Trade Club, Southeastern Foreign Trade Council and state and city governments. Henderson Hallman, N. A. A. governor for Georgia, presided at the meeting and urged that the invitations be sent as the start of an active campaign to call attention to the advantages offered here as the logical location for the Atlantic seaboard terminal of trans-Atlantic dirigible flights by way of the Azores.

The wire to Dr. Eckener points out that Atlanta is already the center of all kinds of transportation and from the standpoint of central location, altitude, perfect flying climate, freedom from fogs and other unpleasant conditions, make this city an ideal site.

A wire was also dispatched to Mr.
Litchfield urging him to accompany Dr. Eckener and promised a cordial reception. Both are to be the guests of the city.

Telegram to Eckener.
"At a special meeting of the un-derdesigned it was unanimously voted to extend to you an urgent invitation to visit Atlanta and Georgia while in this country. This entire section has been thrilled by your marvelous exploits. Atlanta is the southern center of aviation and our citizens are keenly interested in the commercial possibilities of lighter than air craft. We believe we have in Atlanta the ideal location for the American terminal of any proposed trans-Atlantic dirigible route. We are already a center of other forms of transportation and from a standpoint of climate and quick accessibility to large centers of population, we believe we have the ideal location for the center of dirigible activities and stand ready to cooperate in every possible way. We earnestly hope you will see fit to accept this invitation to be the guest of the city of Atlanta and the state of Georgia."

The telegram to Mr. Litchfield follows:
"The undersigned organizations have just extended an urgent invitation to Dr. Eckener to visit Atlanta and we earnestly request your cooperation and also, if possible, your accompany him. We believe you are already familiar with the advantages of Atlanta, both from a climatic standpoint and its strategic geographic location. As you know Atlanta is the center of all forms of transportation, both on the ground and in the air, and our people are keenly interested in the possibilities of lighter than air craft. Should our claims find favor in your eyes, you may rest assured that Atlanta and Georgia will cooperate with you in every possible way. In any event, we would feel highly honored to have you and Dr. Eckener come to Atlanta. Assuring you both of a most cordial welcome."

14 ARABS KILLED
BY BRITISH TROOPS.

Jerusalem, September 3.—(AP)—Palestine in general today was quiet with authorities pushing their inquiries into the causes of the recent rioting and taking into at least temporary custody scores of Arabs and Jews.

Tiberias in upper Galilee was the only source of anxiety for telephone communication with that district had failed after reports had been received of scattering Moslem attacks which caused a few casualties.

A Jewish Telegraphic Agency correspondent reported that 14 Arabs were killed by troops when they attacked Yessod HaMa'alah. Two others were said to have been similarly killed near the colony Nishmar Ja'Ya-den, both in Galilee.

The same source reported that 200
Arabs were arrested at Lifta and 120 at Hebron on suspicion of having participated in the riots.

Now that feeling does not run quite so high, stories of inter-racial heroism have gained circulation. One of these was the protection given four Jewish workers at the Rockefeller museum by Arab comrades from other Moslems who sought to kill them.

Rumors that E. Lawrence, "Larence of Arabia," had been in Palestine were denied today but the report persisted that he arrived in Egypt some weeks ago. (Lawrence is now in the royal air force under the name of Shaw. A considerable force of this organization is stationed in Egypt.)

Major John Wood Vanishes In Desert
As Plane Explodes

Mechanic, Found Wandering, Dazed, Tells Story of Disaster; No Trace of Wood Found.

Needles, Cal., September 3.—(AP)— Pilot H. Gatty, in a plane sent into the desert by the Lockheed Aircraft Corporation, of Burbank, Cal., tonight located the wreckage of Major John Wood's cabin monoplane, 10 miles east of Pite Springs, Gatty saw no trace of Wood, who has been missing since he took off from Metropolitan airport, Los Angeles, at 1
a. m. Monday en route to Cleveland in a non-stop race.

Needles, Cal., September 3.—(AP)—
Ward Miller, 25-year-old airplane mechanic, was found wandering in the desert near here today and told a story that hinted of tragedy for the speed race of his companion, Major John Wood, 32, president of the Northern Airways, who took off from Los Angeles for Cleveland early Monday. Tonight men and airplanes were searching the desert for Major Wood and his plane.

Miller, who said he believed the pilot had been killed, declared an explosion hurled him from the speeding plane. He told a prospector who found him dazed and near collapse, that he lapsed into unconsciousness just as he pulled the rip cord of his parachute.

After he regained his senses Miller said he found himself prostrate on the desert. Wandering about he saw bits of the wing of an airplane but could find no trace of the pilot or other parts of the craft.

Major Wood, whose home was in Wausau, Wis., early Monday took off from the Metropolitan airport near Los Angeles as the last entrant in the feature race of the national air races which was won by Lieutenant Henry J. Brown, of Cleveland, with a time of 13 hours and 15 minutes.

Wood's plane carried 500 gallons of gasoline for the non-stop flight. The flier, a veteran pilot, had a parachute but it was believed he might have experienced difficulty in extricating himself from the narrow pilot's cabin.

Needles, located on the Arizona-California boundary, is about 300 miles east of Los Angeles on the route followed by eastbound planes.

It is possible that a bolt of lightning struck the ship as a severe storm raged over the desert early Monday.
Preparations were made at Los Angeles tonight for a search of the desert by fliers to determine what happened to the veteran pilot.

The Lockheed Aircraft company, builders of Major Wood's ship, dispatched a fast plane to Needles.
Three other airplanes were tuned up at the Metropolitan airport, where Major Wood's flight was started, to search the country. One of the pilots was Colonel Art Goebel, trans-Atlantic and cross-country flier, who withdrew from the race when his plane failed to function properly.

Meanwhile pilots on one Arizona and four California air lines scanned the country for a trace of the missing major, but late today the appearance of Miller was the only clue.

Many arrests have been made and considerable progress has already been made in dealing with summary cases.
Special measures are being taken to provide for impartial tribunals to cope with what will be a large number of cases.

"At the request of the high commissioner, the secretary of state for colonies is appointing a commission of inquiry which will proceed to Palestine this month to inquire into the causes which led to the recent outbreak, including the extent to which it may be regarded as having been preconcerted or due to organized actions."

C. F. PALMER'S BID FOR CITY HALL SITE
COSTS HIM A HAT

C. F. Palmer, of Palmer, Inc., is out a hat and Atlanta's mayor, I. N.
Ragsdale, will be sporting a new fall bid within the next few days as the result of the bid submitted Monday by Mr. Palmer for lease of the present site of the Atlanta city hall.

Several weeks ago, when a bid for the property was before the special city hall committee of city council for consideration, Mr. Ragsdale opposed it because he thought it was not a good offer.

Mr. Palmer, who was before the committee, countered with an assertion that the city would not get a better one.

"I'll bet you a hat we do," Atlanta's mayor replied.

"It's a contract," Palmer said.
Tuesday at a special meeting of a joint councilmanic committee considering the new bid offered by the Palmer company, Mr. Palmer declared the proposition "is the best yet made for the tract."

"I get my new hat, then," Mr.
Ragsdale declared.

Palmer admitted defeat and agreed to purchase the new feldora or whatever kind the mayor selects whether city council accepts the most recent bid or not.

BY GRANTLAND RICE.

Pebble Beach, Cal., September 3.—
As dusk fell tonight on Pebble Beach, Cyril Tolley's golf ball still reposed in the fork of a tall pine guarding the 18th green. It lay there like a dove's egg resting on the green branches.

This shot was typical of all the amazing things that happened on the second day of the qualifying round where Bobby Jones and Young Gene Homans, of Englewood, tied for the medal at 145.

These two qualifying days have been full of amazing and turbulent incidents. But in spite of that most of the best golfers have broken through to have their chance at medal play.

Tolley, Storey and Bourne, of the British Inviting forces, all made the grade gallantly. Sweetser, another star, had a fighting match, but got safely through in spite of putt after putt that rimmed the cup and failed to drop. George Voigt, another eastern star, got a Voigt.

You will hear the story of Phil Finlay later on, and he is a golfer who will be watching the remainder of the route.

All in all, the qualifying days were triumphs for the west coast. This section has entered about 50 per cent of the field with Doc Willing and Don Moe, of Portland, only a stroke away from Jones and Homans. Young Dunlap, who turned in a 69 on Monday, fell back to a 70 today. Tolley would have been one of the low scorers except for his approach at the 18th hole, where the ball lodged in a tall pine 60 feet above the green turf. When the approach that seemed headed for the pine landed and refused to drop, it was almost sure the price of a trip to the western coast to see Tolley's expression. In spite of this one ship

HEFLIN'S SON JAILED AGAIN ON DRY CHARGE

Released on Bond After Arrest for Being Drunk.

Phoenix City, Ala., September 3.—(AP)—Freedom on bond pending a hearing was granted today to J. Tom Hefflin, Jr., son of the senior United States senator from Alabama, after the young man and a companion had spent the night in jail on a charge of drunkenness.

Young Hefflin was held also on a charge of violating the state prohibition law after officers said they found three bottles of "home brew" in his automobile. The young man was arrested with B. M. Haines, of Standing Rock, Ala., who was charged with operating Hefflin's car while drunk. The Rev. Marvin E. Hefflin, of Columbus, Ga., and attorneys obtained young Hefflin's release today and a continuance of his recorder's court hearing until Friday. Similar arrangements were said to have been made for Haines.

The pair were arrested around midnight last night when officers said the car was driven in a peculiar manner. Hefflin said he had spent the weekend in Columbus, Ala., and was returning to his father's home at Lafayette, Ala. He said he planned to leave soon to attend a law school in Tennessee.

SIX ON POLK SUPERIOR DOCKET FOR MURDER

Cedartown, Ga., September 3.—(Special)—Six men will go on trial for murder at the present session of Polk superior court, according to the docket.

R. C. Poe, Ernest Smith, alias Bob Poe, and Martin Schumuck are under indictment for the murder of Sam Greer, of Stone Mountain, Ga., who was fatally wounded while watching a gun battle between officers and bandits who are alleged to have robbed the office safe at the Arson mill 12 miles from Cedartown and then to have attempted to shoot their way through a party of officers who were trying to stop them. It is charged that a bullet fired by one of the accused men struck Greer, who died a few hours later in Cedartown hospital. The three men were captured a few miles away from the scene of the shooting when their car turned over on a curve. The men will be tried separately, and Solicitor W. Ragsdale will place Poe on trial first. The case will probably be opened Wednesday morning by Judge Price Edwards, of the Tallapoosa circuit, is presiding.

Another case set for trial is that of Raymond Grubb, indicted for murder in connection with the death of B. F. Childers, who died of injuries said to have been received when he was struck down by a car on a highway near Cedartown by an automobile said to have been driven by Grubb.

Rich Summerlin, colored, will be tried for the murder of Isaiah Holstein, colored, indicted for murdering Jimmie Lee Shorter at Rockmart.

JAMES S. ELDER, 85, VETERAN OF GRAY, DIES AT FAIRBURN

Fairburn, Ga., September 3.—(Special)—Colonel James Shannon Elder, 85, died at his residence here this morning. He was born in Clarke county, Georgia, and moved to Campbell county when thirteen years old. He had resided in Fairburn since that time and until his retirement a few years ago was actively engaged in the retail lumber business.

At the outbreak of the Civil War he enlisted in the Thirtieth Georgia Regiment and served that organization as a signal man throughout the war.

He had been active as a member of the United Confederate Veterans and had held many posts of honor and trust with them. At the time of his death he held a commission as adjutant general and chief of staff of the North Georgia Brigade. His membership was in Camp Walker, of Atlanta. He was instrumental in having numbers of graves of ex-Confederate soldiers marked in the cemeteries of this county. He was the last Confederate veteran living in Fairburn.

He was married in 1870 to Miss Lizzie McClure who survives him. He is also survived by one son, J. W. Elder, of Fairburn, and three daughters, Mrs. J. A. Upchurch and Mrs. James Camp, of Fairburn, and Mrs. Eugene Phillips, of Atlanta. Funeral arrangements will be announced later by Bishop and Shaw.

CHICAGO GOSPEL MISSION WRECKED BY BOMB BLAST

Chicago, September 3.—(AP)—A restaurant and a gospel mission were damaged by a bomb explosion early today.

The black powder "pineapple" exploded in the front doorway of a restaurant at 825 West Madison street, the force of the explosion shattering the plate glass window in the gospel mission across the street.

Restaurant rivalry prompted the bombing, police said. The damage was $500.

ALABAMA DEPUTY FIRED FOR ATTACK ON WOMAN AT FARM

Wetumpka, Ala., September 3.—(AP)—Warden L. D. Carlton of the state penitentiary here announced the dismissal today of Deputy Warden N. B. Crawford, in charge of the prison hospital, following issuance of a warrant charging high price, an inmate of the hospital, with attacking a married woman at her farm home near the prison late yesterday.

The deputy warden's discharge was disclosed shortly after Hans Draper, head of the state convict department at Montgomery, ordered a thorough investigation of the charge. Price was placed in solitary confinement after he was taken into custody in company with a trusty who had been assigned to guard him.

Warden Carlton said he had not completed his investigation but dismissed Crawford for permitting Price to leave the hospital. Price recently was returned to the prison from the state hospital for insane at Tuscaloosa, where he was ordered confined shortly after beginning a 60-day sentence for false pretense.

The warrant was sworn out by the husband of the woman, before Judge W. T. Speigner. The case probably will be investigated by the Elmore county grand jury when it convenes September 18.

The woman, who was just recovering from a long illness, was said to have been rescued by persons working in an adjoining field.

PROPHETIC SPIDER IN ARKANSAS TOWN SPELLS WORD 'WAR'

Blytheville, Ark., September 3.—(AP)—A spider sage that writes its prophecies in its web has forecast war. The spider—a species known as a "lettering spider" and very rare at Blytheville in the garden of T. G. Burns. It spun the word "war" today and finished the "W" of another war before knocking off.

The word is more than two feet long, plainly written. The spider is more than two inches long and attracted much attention.

LENGTH OF LIFE IS ON DECREASE, DECLARES EXPERT

New York, September 3.—Study of mortality records has convinced Chester Hume Forsyth, assistant professor of mathematics at Dartmouth, that the average length of life in this country is decreasing. Presenting his views in the publication science, he says the reduction in death rates at early ages have been more than offset by mortality at advanced ages.

HEAT WAVE RULES THROUGHOUT EAST

Sunburn Season Continues With Record-Breaking Figure for Day.

New York, September 3.—(AP)—The sunburn season continued today throughout the east.

If Labor Day to Mr. Average Man means the end of vacation time and practical summer, it means nothing to the sunburners.

For the third successive day temperatures along the eastern seaboard soared near to and in some cases beyond records for the day, and there were no immediate prospects for general relief.

Starting at a pleasant 71 at 7 a. m. today, the thermometer in New York rose steadily and by mid-afternoon had reached 94.2, breaking by a fraction the record for September 3, and making the day the hottest of the summer. The record in the third successive day of better than 90-degree heat in the metropolis.

New England established the highest marks in the eastern territory. The reading in Boston in early afternoon was 97, only 6 degrees below the highest temperature on record. At Portland, Maine, the mercury hit 95, and kept on rising. In Hallowell, Maine, Brookfield, Massachusetts towns, asked the state health department for permission to obtain water from sources other than their usual reservoirs, because of prolonged drought. Rainfall in some Massachusetts towns was about half the normal amount, authorities said.

Some consolation was had by sweltering easterners in the fact that humidity was relatively low, but the weather bureau forecast no cooling and general rain although there were prospects for local showers.

The prediction for New York and southern New England was continued warm tonight and tomorrow.

SCENIC HIGHWAY NEAR PENSACOLA IS DEDICATED

Pensacola, Fla., September 3.—(AP)—The scenic highway, a link in the Old Spanish Trail, was officially open to traffic today, following its formal dedication at Labor Day ceremonies, participated in by Governor Doyle E. Carlton and his wife.

In the dedication address, the chief executive predicted tremendous agricultural growth in the state as a result of road development which, he said, was one of the principal objectives of his administration. He also stressed the value of good roads in attracting tourists to the state.

Mrs. Carlton officially opened the highway by striking a ribbon with a cord stretched across the concrete slabs.

Hundreds of spectators braved a blizzarding rain to witness the ceremonies.

Governor Carlton also delivered another address here at a Labor Day picnic in which he reviewed the importance of organized labor in every community.

MAN KILLS WIFE AND YOUNG GIRL; SHOOTS HIMSELF

Boone, Iowa, September 3.—(AP)—Frank Pestotnik, 50, shot and killed his wife and 16-year-old daughter yesterday and then himself.

In an attempt to escape from his father, who had just returned from a coal mine which he operated, Mary, the daughter, fled to the front yard, but was shot twice.

After slaying his daughter, Pestotnik started back to the house when he met his wife, Belle, 47, who had followed him from the kitchen. He shot and killed her on the front porch, and then went to his bedroom, where he took his own life.

Financial despondency was believed responsible for Pestotnik's act.

TENNESSEE MAN IN QUICKSAND FINALLY RESCUED

Camden, Tenn., September 3.—(AP)—E. A. Fry, 22-year-old Camden pharmacist, was alive today, thanks to the valiant efforts of several hundred men who fought a nine-hour battle in re-tying a quicksand bed by the dim light of flares and electric torches deep in a cavern in the Tennessee hills yesterday.

Fry was one of a fishing party of six which decided to explore Baugus cave, 30 miles from here.

Nearly a quarter of a mile back in the hill from the entrance to the cave Fry stepped into the quicksand trap. He sank immediately to his hips. His five companions strove unavailingly to extricate him, while he sank inexorably deeper.

When the apparently doomed youth sank to his shoulders part of his trouble he was helped by the other who stayed and carried on the battle.

The alarm brought to the cave a crowd of 3,000 from which volunteers took the places of workers exhausted by their efforts inside the cave. Finally Fry was pulled free with the aid of ropes and boards.

Physicians here pronounced the pharmacist in a serious condition from exhaustion.

50 TURKISH WOMEN PARADE DECOLETTE IN BEAUTY CONTEST

Constantinople, September 3.—(United News)—Mohammed's ghost presumably went in shame today when 50 Turkish women paraded in decollete before a jury of male notables in Turkey's first beauty contest.

The prize was not awarded today, but the selections made indicated that the jury prefers the traditional oriental plumage to what they termed the "straight down" lines of the western figures.

PIGEON FLIES OVER BODY OF MASTER AND DROPS DEAD

Memphis, Tenn., September 3.—(AP)—A homing pigeon flew over his boy master's body today and dropped dead. It will be buried in the same casket with Louis W. Balestrino, 19, Memphis youth, and pigeon fancier who was drowned yesterday while fishing.

The pigeon was the youth's favorite and had taken many prizes. It left its roost, circled gracefully over the body where the boy lay and dropped dead while swooping toward the porch.

New Game Warden.

Valdosta, Ga., September 3.—(Special)—W. A. Jenkins has been appointed game warden for Lowndes county and has entered upon the discharge of his duties.

GIRL, 17, KILLS SELF; NO CAUSE GIVEN BY PARENTS

Kingsport, Tenn., September 3.—(AP)—Velva Light, 17-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hildert Light, committed suicide late last night by shooting herself with a pistol. Her parents said today no cause for the act could be advanced. Funeral services were held this afternoon.

BOOTLEGGER ACCUSES LOS ANGELES OFFICERS

Los Angeles, September 3.—(AP)—Possible grand jury action was expected here today upon two reports one by the federal prohibition office and another by a confessed bootlegger, naming a large number of Los Angeles policemen as members of a "shakedown ring" exacting tribute from the illicit liquor trade.

The federal prohibition office reported that 62 policemen of the metropolitan area, ranging from captains down, had been named by federal investigators as members of the ring.

At the same time it was disclosed that Harry D. McDonald, a bootlegger, had made a statement to District Attorney Burton Fitts, implicating 25 policemen in the alleged operation of the "shakedown ring."

"Tired of the continued tribute exacted by the police," was reported to have charged that the officers, instead of turning in the liquor they confiscated in raids, sold it to bootleggers from whom they were receiving "protection money."

District Attorney Fitts indicated that he might lay the matter before the county grand jury today. Federal officials said they would take no further action in view of Fitts' inclination to investigate.

McDonald, who was arrested after he had made his statement, declined to furnish bail, saying threats had been telephoned to his wife, and that he preferred to remain in a cell rather than to be at liberty. Fitts placed a guard over his house.

CALLS FOR AUTO AT POLICE BOX; IS TAKEN FOR RIDE

Evanston, Ill., September 3.—(AP)—The distinguished looking, but disheveled gentleman leaning against the lamp post at Dewey and Foster avenues in Evanston, Ill., had been waiting for a car for some time.

He dragged himself to a police call box, which of which was conveniently open.

"Send my car right over," he said, listlessly. "I'll wait."

They sent over the car with the lengthwise seats and the screened windows. The man, too tired even to say who he was, climbed wearily aboard.

"Drive right home," he said. "When he awoke this morning, expecting to be at home, he wasn't."

OFFICERS ABOLISH THE POLE VAULT AT SING SING

Ossining, N. Y., September 3.—The pole vault has been abolished in track athletics at Sing Sing. You're right. Of course the reason must have been that some one of the state's guests would be prompted to scale the walls of their residence.

Americans Demand Fresh Clam Juice, Says Paris Barkeep

New York, September 3.—Monsieur Jules Ausaldi, who runs a big bar in Gay Paree popular with Americans, is here to arrange for a supply of fresh clams. A consignment will be shipped to him every ten days. His patrons demand juice from fresh ones; the bottled stuff will not do.

What Part of My Income Can I Lay Aside for Life Insurance?

HERE is the actual program of a young man; 28, married, with two children.

His income is $5,000 a year. How much of this should he lay aside for Life Insurance?

In this case the annual premiums amount to about $600, leaving a balance of $4,400 of the income for the support of his family, an easy proposition for ambitious young parents looking into the future.

What does he get for his $600?

An estate of $30,000, of which $5,000 is to be paid in cash in case of the husband's death, the rest so arranged in a trust settlement as to produce $100 a month income for the wife during her lifetime.

Your problem may be different. If you are interested in arranging an estate for yourself, let us provide you with the necessary facts.

FINAL HONORS ARE PAID TO ROBERT T. DUBOSE

Athens, Ga., September 3.—(AP)—Robert Toombs DuBose, representative from Clark county in the state legislature, former state senator, and son of a distinguished Confederate leader, was buried in Oconee cemetery late today.

Last rites were conducted by Dr. Lester Rumble, pastor of the First Methodist church, of which Mr. DuBose was a member, and Dr. E. L. Hill, pastor of the First Presbyterian church.

pallbearers were Professor Marion B. DuBose, Judge Blanton Fortson, Robert P. White, Andrew C. Erwin, Hughes Spaulding, E. E. Lamkin, Major A. T. Colley, A. W. Dozier, Dr. H. H. Hunsicker, Junius Lewis and Thomas W. Baxter.

The death of the 70-year-old legislator followed closely on his return from the last session of the state legislature in Atlanta last week, when he appeared to be in good health.

Mr. DuBose is survived by his wife, Mrs. Jennie Wilson Story DuBose, and three children, Mrs. Marion H. Allen, Milledgeville; Mrs. Miles W. Lewis, and son, Bolling S. DuBose.

MURDER CHARGED TO COWETA MAN AFTER FAMILY ROW

Newnan, Ga., September 3.—(AP)—J. Ben Stephens, 49, today was under one indictment for murder and three others charging assault with intent to murder arising from the slaying of one of four distant relatives, one of them fatally, near Grantville, Ga., in an old land dispute.

Announcement that the murder indictment and two of the others had been voted by a Coweta county grand jury here was made by Solicitor-General W. Y. Atkinson. The third assault with intent to murder indictment was returned in Meriwether county, the solicitor said.

Stephens is alleged to have shot Levi Bradberry in Meriwether county on the morning of July 29 and later in the day to have driven down to the Bradberry home in Coweta county, fatally wounding Paul Bradberry, 31, and shooting Irene and David Bradberry.

The trial of Stephens on the murder charge has been set tentatively for Thursday here. He is being held without bail.

Wrens High School.

Wrens, Ga., September 3.—(Special)—The fall term of Wrens High school will open September 9. The outlook indicates it will be the largest opening in the history of the school. A strong faculty has been chosen.

Lady Mary Heath Has Better Chance; Will Never Fly

Cleveland, September 3.—(AP)—Lady Mary Heath, Irish aviatrix, injured in a test landing here Thursday.

has improved chances of recovery, but the probability is that she never will fly a plane again, her physicians said today. Lady Mary, distinguished for long distance flights, suffered a severe fracture of the skull when her plane plunged through the roof of a factory.

Civilians Hear Dr. Durham Speak on School Situation

Dr. Plato Durham made a forceful address Tuesday before the Civitan Club on Atlanta's school situation. The weekly luncheon of the club was largely attended. Dr. Earl Quillian, its president, presiding.

Dr. Durham had been invited to address the club on this question as it was he who had suggested the truancy law which the impending election over the school merger proposition was postponed with the view of bringing about a harmonious solution of the issues involved through the appointment of a conference committee of representative citizens from both sides, which committee should make careful study of the question and agree, if possible, upon a report recommending a program of consolidation by which the city and county systems might be united.

Dr. Durham was introduced by Clark Howell, editor of The Constitution, who said that to him was entitled the credit of the suggestion of the truancy law which is now effective. He lauded Dr. Durham's ability as an educator and his loyalty as a citizen, saying that in the solution of Atlanta's vexed school problem, the voice and judgment of such a man should be a potent factor in arriving at a satisfactory solution of the problem.

Made Brilliant Address.
Dr. Durham made a brilliant address and was loudly applauded. At its conclusion, Bernard Broyles voiced the thanks of the club to Dr. Durham for his address.

Dr. Durham said in part: "There can be little doubt that in the spirit of glad co-operation in all causes that look to the welfare of Atlanta, our citizens have a distinguished place. There is also no doubt that there is general knowledge of the fact that the educational welfare of our children is the highest of all our interests. Yet in spite of these two things we are continually in turmoil and even bitter controversy about our schools."

"There are many explanations given of this. First, many object to the amount of money spent by the schools. It may be enlightening to know that of 60 leading cities of America only three, according to tabulated figures of two years ago, spend less per child than Atlanta. The average is 50 per cent higher than the Atlanta rate and many spend twice as much for a child as Atlanta."

"Again, there are charges of incompetence on the part of our school authorities. As to that, it is the estimate of men in position to know that Mr. Sutton is one of the outstanding schoolmen of the nation. There are others that conclude that the whole conception of public education is wrong and that we should return to the private schools of our fathers. This is simply out of the question. The task of educating all the people is as much beyond the school machinery of our fathers as modern industry is beyond the wheelbarrow methods of the generations gone.

Trouble Lies Deep.
"Where is the trouble? I fear that it lies deeper than the surface situation of which we most often think. In my opinion, one of the chief causes of our trouble is a system of taxation that lays the burden of support of public activities unevenly upon the people. This produces a constant friction and outcry against expansion and perfecting our school system. But more than any other cause of our difficulties is the political nature of our school organization and control. Democracy is and must always be government by the people. Yet many of our greatest interests require the work of the highly trained technician. There is no necessary conflict here. Let the democratic right of the people be exercised in the process of selection of the trained experts, but give such interests into the hands of these technicians and hold them responsible."

"In the light of the organization of Greater Atlanta we have a great chance for a reorganization of our schools into a metropolitan, non-political, highly efficient system. Economical administration, concentrated and effective organization requires it; expert detached and masterly control depends upon it. "The organization of such a metropolitan system for the new Atlanta should be so brought to pass that the rights of all segments of the population will be safeguarded and with the wholehearted good will of all the people."

"I suggest the appointment by all parties interested in a small commission, composed of educational and business experts, to study the systems of metropolitan centers and to lay before the people of our community the result of their labors, that we may intelligently adopt a system matured and proven in experience of such communities. The children of Atlanta have a right to the best. However great Greater Atlanta may become in wealth or physical splendor, to be truly great she must be, above all things, a good place for a child to be born; here must swing the great gates to the kingdom of light."

STATE GAME AND FISH OFFICIALS CONFIRMED

With Peter S. Twitty confirmed as commissioner and the reelection of Charles S. Arnow as chairman approved, the prolonged factional fight in the state game and fish commission Tuesday was believed at an end. The body met Monday in its offices and adopted a resolution confirming the reelection of Twitty and Arnow.

The game and fish board as now constituted includes Mr. Arnow as chairman, and D. M. Byrd and Claude Rountree as members. Rountree succeeds Dr. J. E. Harden, having been confirmed for this place by the state senate after the appointment of D. A. Finley, of Valdosta, was turned down by the senate.

The controversy in the board developed at the annual meeting last May, when separate sessions were held by groups of members who had failed to agree on the issue of an appointment by Governor Hardman, who had named Finley to the board as successor to Dr. Harden.

Finley and Byrd held a meeting and elected Byrd chairman and C. E. Gregory, Atlanta newspaperman, commissioner. The other two members, Arnow and Harden, also held a meeting, and named Arnow chairman and Twitty commissioner. Gregory, declaring that he had not sought the office of commissioner, asked that his name be withdrawn.

Monday's meeting of the board approved officially the minutes of the May meeting held by Arnow and Harden, and ratified the election of Twitty and Arnow as commissioner and chairman, respectively.

The board adopted another resolution requesting special attention by the game and fish commissioner to the problems of the tidewater section of Georgia, particularly in regard to the oyster industry.

EUGENE TALMADGE TO ATTEND COTTON MEET IN MEMPHIS

Eugene Talmadge, Georgia commissioner of agriculture, will attend a meeting of the cotton states commissioners in Memphis, Tenn., on September 16 to discuss the deterioration of the cotton crop, he announced Tuesday. The cotton crop in Georgia has deteriorated at least 15 per cent in the past month, Mr. Talmadge said.

A letter of invitation to attend the meeting of commissioners, written by Harry D. Wilson, commissioner of the Louisiana department of agriculture and immigration, said that the Louisiana crop had deteriorated 20 per cent in the last three weeks. Mr. Talmadge said he has also received a report from Texas that the crop in that state is a good deal shorter than the estimate.

Dr. A. W. Gilbert, Massachusetts commissioner and secretary of the national organization of agricultural commissioners, has been invited to attend the meeting in Memphis, Mr. Talmadge was informed. An official statement on the damage to the crop will be given out at the meeting.

Mr. Talmadge said that he never advised a farmer or anyone else to hold his cotton, for "if he is in debt he ought not hold it." As a rule, Mr. Talmadge pointed out, handling charges and interest the farmer has to pay will amount to more than the profit he can make out of the increase in price.

At home Monday, Mr. Talmadge met his wagon coming from the gin. After paying for ginning, bagging and ties he received $7.82 for seed from a 516-pound bale of cotton. Mr. Talmadge said. "At the present price of seed it would pay the farmer to carry his seed home and use it for fertilizer or feed. If the farmers all over the state would haul their seed back home the price would pick up," he declared.

MEETING IS CALLED TO DISCUSS CHANGE IN PARKING LAWS
Councilman James L. Wells, chairman of the traffic committee of city council, Tuesday called a public hearing on a proposal to eliminate all parking restrictions in Atlanta, for 2 o'clock on the afternoon of September 16.

The measure was offered Monday in city council by Alderman W. Guy Dobbins, of the seventh ward, and Councilman William E. Saunders, of the twelfth, and referred to the committee for consideration.

STATE PHYSICIAN WILL INVESTIGATE ILLNESS AT TRION

A staff physician from the state board of health will leave today for Trion to investigate the mysterious illness of a number of members of the Chandler family in that town, it was announced Tuesday by Dr. Joe Bowdoin, of the state board. Physicians at Trion have reported to the state board that meningitis is suspected as being the cause of the illnesses. At first it was believed that food eaten at the birthday party of the children's grandmother was responsible.

1929 SUN "COOL"
Surface Temperature of Old Sol Only 11,000 Degrees Fahrenheit.

Atlantans looking forward to the passing of summer's warm days may take some consolation from the fact that the surface temperature of the sun that gave them their coats of tan this season is only 11,000 degrees Fahrenheit, as compared with that of Vega, the sun of the constellation Lyra, which has a surface temperature of approximately 20,000 degrees. It is pointed out by Charles Nevers Holmes, of Reading, Mass.

If Atlantans were able to navigate from the planet Earth to a planet in the Lyra constellation, they would have more and larger sunburn blisters to nurse. But then why worry about that when Vega is many trillions of miles away from Atlanta.

MERRITT'S LAWYERS PLANNING LAST MOVE

Prisoner Is Taken To Death Cell at Milledgeville Prison.

While his attorneys were preparing a last move to save him from death in the electric chair, believed to be an extraordinary motion for a new trial, Alvin Eugene Merritt Tuesday was removed from his cell in the Fulton tower to the death cell at the Milledgeville state prison farm.

Merritt's execution is set for Friday between the hours of 10 a. m. and 2 p. m.

U. A. Allen, chief of Merritt's counsel, Tuesday afternoon conferred with his associates in the case, Judge W. A. Covington and Clarence Miner, but said Tuesday night he was unable to announce just what the defense plans were. He indicated, however, that he would file with Judge Edgar E. Pomeroy, in Fulton superior court, an extraordinary motion for a new trial.

Court attaches and officials of the solicitor-general's office said that in the event the motion was filed it likely would be given an immediate hearing. Though Solicitor-General John A. Boykin was not at his office Tuesday his assistants stated they were ready to go into court and oppose any move the Merritt defense might make.

Mr. Allen said he did not know whether Merritt's wife or members of his family would attempt to see Governor L. G. Hardman to make to the chief executive a direct appeal for clemency, recommendation for which already has been refused by the state prison commission.

Merritt apparently was in despair Tuesday morning when the motor trip to Milledgeville was begun. Fellow inmates of the tower said the condemned man had lost his air of certainty and admitted to some of his intimates that he believed "it was almost all over."

It was the condemned attacker's second trip to Milledgeville. He first was sentenced to be executed on August 20, but received a stay of execution from Governor Hardman at the request of the prison commission, which at that time had not had an opportunity to review his plea for executive clemency.

Shortly before leaving the tower the condemned man was visited by his wife and 1-year-old daughter. Mrs. Merritt told the jail guards she intended to go to Milledgeville today for a last visit with her husband.

NEW BOND FIXED ON SECOND VISIT TO PROHIBITION COURT

Henry Thomas has paid his second visit to United States Commissioner Griffith within a week's time.

Less than seven days ago he appeared just in time to prevent another from being bound over to the grand jury for possessing whisky which belonged to him. Tuesday he was taken in tow by prohibition agents for transporting a quantity of the forbidden beverage in a suitcase. Bond was assessed in the sum of $500, he having made a $300 bond on the other occasion.

AUTOMOBILE TRIPS OF HARRY SINCLAIR ARE DISCONTINUED

Washington, September 3.—(AP)—The board of public welfare today discontinued the duties of Harry F. Sinclair, oil operator, who is serving a term in the district jail, which permitted him to take several automobile rides weekly.

Sinclair, who is acting as an assistant to Dr. Morris Hyman, resident physician at the jail, had been permitted several times a week to accompany the doctor from the jail to a branch clinic at a wharf several blocks away. W. L. Peak, jail superintendent, previously had denied that Sinclair was permitted to take automobile rides for pleasure.

MAYOR RAGSDALE INVITED TO ATTEND BALTIMORE PARTY

Mayor I. N. Ragdale Tuesday was invited to attend the celebration of the 200th birthday party of the city of Baltimore to be held September 12-15. The invitation came from Mayor William F. Branning. Mr. Ragdale probably will not be able to be present, he said.

A Million Dollars and Forty-Two Times a Million!

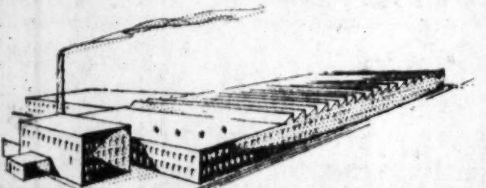

Many million-dollar structures have been successfully launched in Atlanta during recent months. It is "being done." Yet five years ago, a mere whisper that anyone was contemplating erection of a million-dollar building here would have caused discussion, amazement, speculation.

The new Shrine Mosque, now nearing completion at the corner of Peachtree and Kimball streets, is a million-dollar building that will add much to the beauty of the city.

A short time and Atlanta city's fathers will be in the new, imposing City Hall at Washington and Mitchell—a building that will represent an investment of practically one million dollars.

The first unit of the big, new B. F. Goodrich Rubber Co. plant—to be located at Fourteenth street and Hemphill avenue—will go down in building records as a $1,500,000 project.

Journey over to Auburn and Ivy and note the headway being made with the new Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph building—the first unit alone to cost over $1,000,000.

Forty-Two Times A Million Dollars!

A million dollars, is a lot of money. But $42,000,000 is a great deal more.

The gist of this message is simply:

The Atlanta Constitution reaches a buying power $42,000,000 greater than that reached by its nearest competitor among the Atlanta daily newspapers!

The figure is conservative

Official circulation figures show the daily Constitution reaches 12,000 more families than the second ranking daily.

An average yearly income for these families of $3,500 is admittedly conservative. Multiply that figure by the circulation lead of 12,000 families and you have an added buying power of $42,000,000 reached only through the advertising columns of The Atlanta Constitution.

Assuming an average of four and a half persons to a family, that's 54,000 more readers reached—potential buyers of your products or services, Mr. Advertiser.

Isn't This Added Buying Power Worth Going After?

Drastic Changes in Radio Legislation To Be Urged At Bar Association Meet

Report of Standing Committee on Radio Law Recommends Wide Revisions.

Washington, September 3.—(AP)—When the American Bar Association meets in Memphis October 23 it will have before it recommendations by its standing committee on radio law for sweeping revision of present radio legislation.

The report, drawn by Louis G. Caldwell, former general counsel for the radio commission; William J. Donovan, former assistant attorney general; Fred C. Fernald, Boston, Mass.; Cassius E. Gates, Seattle, Wash.; and Edward A. Zimmerman, Chicago, called for the repeal of the section of the radio act dividing the country into zones. The Davis amendment, by which the commission was directed to allocate all broadcasting facilities equally as between private and public stations in proportion to population in the states in the various zones, also was attacked on the ground that it "tends counter to well-established engineering principles."

The committee reported that there exists an uncertainty and division of authority in radio administration which should be terminated by placing radio regulation permanently in the hands either of the radio commission or the department of commerce.

Repeal of Provisions Urged.
It advocated repeal of the anti-monopoly provision of the act on the ground that it is a threat to the foreign communication of the United States and may result in short wave channels being turned back into "the international grab-bag open to registration by other nations."

The section forbidding the merger of the wire and radio communication companies, the report said, rests "upon a misconception as to the nature of radio reception and its relations to wire communication."

The committee further recommended repeal of the section requiring construction permit before a radio station can be constructed and the mitigation of provisions regarding the issuance of licenses to corporations having alien stockholders particularly with respect to ships.

Changes Listed.
Other important legislative changes recommended included the immediate return to the original license period of three years for broadcasting stations and five years for other stations. The present license period is three months. The radio act, in the opinion of the committee, should be amended so as to restrict the court of appeals of the District of Columbia to judicial functions and so as not to permit it to substitute its judgment for that of commission on matters involving principles of radio engineering.

As to proposed legislation the committee recommended that the bar association oppose the Couzens communication bill on the ground that radio regulation is not yet at a stage where it can be combined with regulation of wire communication.

Opposition to all bills attempting to control licensing authority in administration or technical details was recommended.

SELF-DEFENSE CLAIM OF SLOOP OPERATOR

San Lucas De Barrameda, Spain, September 3.—(AP)—Dr. Francisco Caballero, Porto Rican yachtsman held here for the death of Angel Carbo, who was the entire crew of his sloop, which has arrived here from New York, today declared he killed Carbo in self-defense and in defense of the only other occupant of the boat, Roberto Lopez, of New York.

Dr. Francisco is held in jail here awaiting the arrival of the United States consul from Seville, Richard Ford. Today Francisco called the Porto Rican newspaper El Mundo his explanation of Carbo's death.

"The only favor I request is the publication of the character and reputation of the bandit who accompanied me," said the message. "He was known under the aliases 'Mayaguez' and 'Colinas.' Obtain Carbo's antecedents from the San Juan police. Don't bother me."

Dr. Francisco, interviewed in prison here by correspondents, said Carbo frequently abandoned the sloop on the way from New York to Europe and later attempted to wreck the yacht along the reefs and sandbars of the Spanish Portuguese coast.

Francisco said that before leaving Porto Rico he was fully acquainted with Carbo's character, and knew he had served a prison sentence, but took him along because he was an especially skillful and experienced sailor.

Francisco's 26-foot sloop, Mary, arrived here last Friday night. The next night an argument began aboard which ended with the doctor's shooting Carbo, whose body fell overboard and has not been recovered.

NEGRO RAIL WORKER INJURED BY FALL, FOUND BY TRESTLE

Rome, Ga., September 3.—(Special.)—Holbert Hall, negro employee of the Central of Georgia, lay beside a trestle here for several hours early this morning severely injured, before he was discovered by fellow workmen.

He was walking the track and at the approach of a train attempted to step aside, only to fall 40 feet from the trestle, breaking his spine, left arm and one rib.

Two Indicted.

Columbus, Ga., September 3.—(AP)—A federal grand jury today indicted Carl Cameron and Wilson Goodley, local youths, for the robbery several weeks ago of the Jordan City post-office. The cases are expected to be disposed of at the present term of court.

Traffic cop gets summons

Even he can't get away with it

"DON'T try to put anything over on Nature," is the way a cop would express it. "Sooner or later she'll get you. Give you a ticket and lay you up in a place where you'd rather not be."

"Even cops can't get away with it. Like everyone else, if they don't pay attention to the warnings they get a summons that lands them in the doctor's office."

"What the doctor advises is Nujol. Says Nujol will regulate you just like you regulate traffic. Keep things from getting in a jam. Help them move along easy and regular."

"The doctor is right. Just ask the healthiest men on the force. If they need Nujol—with all the exercise they get—what about all the fellows that roll by in their cars?"

"Just take a tip from me. You may have the best intentions in the world. But everybody gets tied up at times. Nature can't always take care of things without help."

"That's where Nujol comes to your rescue. Just as it does, regularly, for thousands of other people."

"Our Medical Chief tells me that Nujol isn't a medicine. It contains absolutely nothing in the way of medicine or drugs. It's simply a pure natural substance (perfected by the Nujol Laboratories, 2 Park Avenue, New York), that keeps things functioning at all times as Nature intends them to. Normally. Easily. Regularly."

You'll find Nujol at all drugstores. Sold only in sealed packages. Get some on your way home today.

DEMAND WILL GOVERN CITY SCHOOL ELECTION

A special city election on the discussed city and county school merger will not be called by the county board of education until there "becomes a widespread demand for such an election," members of the board made it known Tuesday following an executive session at the courthouse when they unanimously voted to postpone action on the proposal.

"The board will consider any request for the special election, but it does not feel that it is the proper time for vote on such a proposal," a statement issued after the meeting said.

Members of the board and a number of citizens from over the county will meet today with the board of county commissioners to plan for and with the hope of obtaining an allocation of funds for the erection of at least four new elementary school buildings and the proposed new Buckhead High school.

The legislature at its recent session passed a bill granting the county commission authority to provide additional funds for the county school system to aid in the building of these new schools.

Previously to the executive session Tuesday the county board held its regular monthly meeting and heard from Superintendent Jere A. Wells a report that all was in readiness for the reopening of schools next Monday.

"We have completed our assignment of teachers and reports indicate we will have a record year," Mr. Wells said. "The enrollment now in progress is heavier than it ever has been before and we are ready to take care of the largest number of children ever to attend our county schools."

LIFE TOLL HEAVY IN PHILIPPINE ISLAND TYPHOON

Manila, September 3.—(AP)—A typhoon which has lashed Luzon Island for three days sank the steamer Mayon yesterday with reported heavy loss of life.

A dispatch to the Manila railroad, owner of the Mayon, said the vessel was sunk off Pasco in Bagay gulf, and that 28 passengers were missing. Nine passengers were saved. What happened to the crew was not reported.

The typhoon first struck the southernmost provinces of Luzon Sunday and Monday, causing much damage over several districts which were just recovering from the destructive storm of last November.

Passing out to sea, the typhoon whirled about and descended upon Manila, overturning some thatched huts of natives, hurling trees upon trolley wires and halting car service. The lower sections of the city were flooded by torrential rains.

HALF OF GREAT SMOKY PARK AREA ALREADY SECURED

Washington, September 3.—(AP)—Arno B. Cammerer, associate director of the national park service, who is the personal representative of Secretary Wilbur on all matters affecting the proposed Great Smoky Mountain National park, said today that approximately one-half of the minimum area of 427,000 acres being acquired by North Carolina and Tennessee has been either purchased or optioned for purchase.

Plans, Mr. Cammerer said, are being perfected by the two states to turn over to the government 150,000 acres for administration and protection purposes, permitted under the national park law.

Until the remainder of the 427,000 acres have been acquired by the states, however, no development of the national park can be undertaken. It was probable, he said, that within a short time the entire 427,000 acres will have been acquired.

MOTHER'S REPROOF DRIVES DAUGHTER TO SUICIDE DEATH

Athens, Ga., September 3.—(AP)—A poison which had been used for several days for the amusement of the young people of her set today brought death to Miss Virgie Patrick, 17, who drank the fluid.

The poison had been used by the girl and her friends for tattooing, a new fad.

Late last night she arrived home after attending a barbecue-dance. She was questioned by her mother regarding the party and her absence from work at a manufacturing plant where she had been employed on the night force.

Taking the poison from her handbag, she declared her intention of drinking it, and before the older woman could seize the container, had drained its contents. She died twenty minutes later, expressing regret at her deed.

LAST RITES TODAY FOR J. M. FIELD, OF CARTERSVILLE

Cartersville, Ga., September 3.—(Special.)—Funeral services for J. M. Field, 72, will be held at his home on West avenue Wednesday afternoon at 2:30. The Rev. Walter S. Robison, pastor of the Sam Jones Memorial Methodist church, will have charge of the services. Interment will follow in the family lot in Oakhill cemetery.

Surviving are the widow, with three daughters, one son and two sisters. Mr. Field, who died at his home here late Monday night, has been one of the leading business men of the community and in his later years developed a number of successful mining operations in the Cartersville district.

Pierce-Arrow fineness reflects
In These New Colorings

WHEN the new Autumn colorings for Pierce-Arrow were being created—the work of artists who are masters of color and design—especial care was given to harmonizing the interiors with the exteriors. A remarkable richness of tones throughout is the altogether charming result.

So striking was the slender grace of the new Straight Eight line—so completely did it outmode the bulk and stodginess of other fine cars—that fineness of detail was somewhat taken for granted. The added new colorings, however, lend emphasis in this particular.

There will never be enough Pierce-Arrows to become commonplace—because mass production is not compatible with Pierce-Arrow standards. But people who own the instinct for fineness usually own also a Pierce-Arrow—or ultimately mean to. And such are the people who will particularly appreciate the new Pierce-Arrow colorings.

WEST END BUSINESS LEADERS NOMINATED

New Officials of Association To Be Announced at Next Meeting.

Election officials of the West End Business Men's Association Tuesday night tabulated a light and widely scattered vote in the annual primary at which time the candidates were thinned down to two for each official post. The primary was conducted by mail. The election will follow immediately and the result will be declared at the next regular meeting, September 16. R. P. Catlin, secretary, is preparing a new ballot bearing the names of the nominees and will mail one to each of the 250 members.

O. T. Camp and Walter W. Whittington head the ballot as candidates for the presidency; R. E. Barnes and W. G. Jenkins, for vice president; J. R. Sims and W. W. Matthews, for secretary; Joseph Crews and A. G. Mathews, for treasurer, while a board of directors is to be selected from a list of 18 candidates.

ACCUSED SLAYER OF WIFE WAIVES HEARING OF CASE

Mobile, Ala., September 3.—(P)—Elijah P. Taylor, 23, a carpenter charged with fatally slaying his young wife's throat last Friday, today waived examination and was bound over to the grand jury on a charge of first degree murder. Taylor, who has been held without bond since his arrest, is charged with hacking to death Adelle Taylor, his 17-year-old wife after she ran screaming across the street from her mother's store, where Taylor had gone in an attempt to see her. The state is said to have several eye witnesses to the crime which was committed about midday.

Following the preliminary trial today Taylor was removed to the county jail where Herdell measurements and finger prints were made. The next term of the grand jury will convene the first week in October.

Fuel Merchants for 44 Years

Wants Haircut; Kenny Calls Barber to Paris

New York, September 3.—(P)—Louis Airoo was awakened at 5 a. m., his wife was poking him in the ribs. "Get up," she said, "someone in Paris wants to talk to you on the telephone."

"Paris?" Louis was amazed. "Someone trying to kid me," he thought, as he ambled to the phone.

But it was Paris. And he recognized the voice. A haircut? Sure, Louis always pleases his customers, sure he'll be right over.

So Louis said Friday on the Levantine to meet William F. Kenny, millionaire utilities magnate and contractor and personal friend of former Governor Smith, at Southampton to give him a real American haircut.

"I've been in Europe all summer," Kenny told Louis over the transatlantic telephone, "and I haven't been able to get a decent haircut, and I want to look presentable when I get back home."

Louis has been cutting Kenny's hair for the last 20 years.

JAILED FOR KICKING DOWN DOORS, MAN HELD UNDER BOND

Dr. A. W. Skelton, 42, of New York city, arrested early Monday morning by Call Officers Hewell and Hardy, in answer to a call by residents of Cleveland avenue, Tuesday in police court was bound over to the grand jury under bond of $500 for assault and battery and $1,500 for burglary.

Skelton is alleged to have entered the home of Mrs. John Hogan, 129 Cleveland avenue, about midnight Sunday. Mrs. Hogan told police that she was awakened by a loud banging on the door and that upon opening it she was brushed aside by Skelton, who ransacked several rooms of the house, being frightened away finally by her dog.

It is alleged that Skelton then went to the home of W. S. Morris at 133 Cleveland avenue, kicked the door down and struck Mr. Morris with his flashlight. Officer Charlie Maddox, who lives nearby, attracted by the noise, went to the Morris home and was attacked by Skelton, he said. Skelton was finally subdued by the joint efforts of Maddox and the two officers, Hewell and Hardy, and lodged at Fulton Tower.

Friends of Skelton, with whom he had been drinking, told police that recently he had suffered a nervous breakdown, and expressed the opinion that he was not responsible for his actions.

LEGION PLANNING OFFICE FOR SALE OF SHOW TICKETS

A downtown office, for sale of tickets to the vaudeville show to be staged at city auditorium, September 19, by the Drum and Bugle Corps of Atlanta post, American Legion, will be announced in a few days, members of the corps committee stated Tuesday night.

The legionnaires are planning to give Atlantans a real big-time vaudeville show, consisting of several imported sketches. The affair is being staged to raise funds to send the drum and bugle corps to St. Louis September 30, for the legion's national convention.

7,000 GARMENT WORKERS STRIKE IN NEW YORK CITY

New York, September 3.—(P)—Seven thousand workers in New York city will walk out tomorrow in a general strike authorized by the general executive board of the International Ladies Garment Workers Union.

Embroidery workers, hemstitchers, pleaters and tuckers are affected by the order, which is expected to paralyze production in 300 garment factories. The strike is the first of a series of 13 nation-wide walkouts which have been authorized by the general executive board.

Ninety per cent of the embroidery workers to walk out tomorrow are women. The strike is directed at the sweatshop evils, and demands include substantial wage increases, a 40-hour five-day week and extra legal holidays.

TYSON LEAVES ESTATE IN 10-YEAR TRUST

Knoxville, Tenn., September 3.—(P)—The will of the late Senator L. D. Tyson, drawn in Long Island, N. Y., just before he sailed for World War service in France, was filed for probate here today.

All real estate, including his home and numerous business holdings here, were left to his widow. Personal property, embracing stocks and other valuables, was left in a 10-year trust fund for his widow and daughter, Mrs. Kenneth Gilpin.

Much of the estate was held jointly by Senator and Mrs. Tyson, and because of entwined interests accurate valuation was not available when the will was filed.

Cary Spence, Knoxville director of public safety, and Paul Rye, Nashville, both of whom served with General Tyson in the war, witnessed the will at the court house in the presence of Mrs. Tyson and Mrs. Gilpin.

C. T. Leonhardt, president of the Spinning Mills Company of which Mr. Tyson was one of the founders, said a thorough search had been made for a later will which many friends of the senator believed had been drawn. Leonhardt said there was no evidence of a new will.

A few minor bequests were made to other relatives.

SMEDLY BUTLER BOOMED TO RUN IN PENNSYLVANIA

Philadelphia, September 3.—(P)—The Philadelphia Evening Bulletin today says that a movement has been started to boom Major General Smedley D. Butler, former director of public safety of Philadelphia, and now commandant of the marine corps base at Quantico, Va., for governor of Pennsylvania.

General Butler, in a telephone talk from Quantico, said he wanted it understood that he had nothing to do with the movement, that he was not seeking the place and did not know whether he would accept if a nomination were offered him.

The movement was said to have developed at the recent American Legion state convention at Scranton, although it was not officially under the auspices of the Legion, political movements being prohibited by that organization.

General Butler attended the convention and made a speech with the result that some members got together and suggested a chain of "Butler for Governor" clubs.

REVIEW OF 5-CENT FARE RULING ASKED IN PLEA

Washington, September 3.—(P)—The supreme court has been asked by the Georgia Power Company to review its controversy with the city of Decatur, Ga., a dispute which arose out of the city's petition that the company be compelled perpetually to operate its North Decatur street railway line at a 5-cent fare.

The company's brief filed with the supreme court charged that the 5-cent fare was confiscatory and discriminating, and added that the power company had taken "appropriate action terminating and surrendering the franchise."

The city's petition asking that the company be compelled to continue the 5-cent fare perpetually was granted in a lower court.

The franchise referred to in the power company's petition was granted in 1903 and in it the company agreed "never to charge more than 5 cents for one fare. Agreeing that this provision fixed the fare while operating the line, the company also held that such provisions did not undertake to compel perpetual and never-ending operation."

PRAYERS ASKED FOR SHIPSTEAD, ILL AT HOME

St. Paul, Minn., September 3.—(P)—United States Senator Thomas D. Schall, republican, of Minnesota, has asked the people of the state to offer prayers for the recovery of his colleague, Senator Henrie Shipstead, farmer-labor, who is ill.

In an address at the Minnesota state fair here yesterday, Senator Schall said that although Shipstead is not a republican, he has been a fighting senator for Minnesota, and is one of the most able men in congress.

Senator Shipstead is living on a secluded island in northern Minnesota, following the advice of his physicians that he needed rest and quiet in an effort to fully recover from an illness which attacked him a year ago in Washington.

MAN WHO TRIED SUICIDE HOPING TO SEE HIS WIFE

T. W. Smith, 28, of Jacksonville, Fla., who Monday drank poison in a local hotel, in despondency over his failure to locate his wife, who, he says, deserted him two weeks ago and came to Atlanta, Tuesday night was greatly disappointed when she failed to visit him.

Smith's wife came to Grady Monday night to see him, but was told that it was after visiting hours. She said she would return Tuesday but did not. Physicians at Grady entertain doubts as to Smith's recovery.

I. C. C. EXAMINER HOLDS COAL RATES UNJUST

Washington, September 3.—(P)—A proposed scale of rates on coal in carloads from mines in Alabama, Tennessee, Kentucky and Virginia to destination in southeastern and Carolina territories was declared unjustified in a report submitted today to the interstate commerce commission by Examiner Kettler.

The examiner recommended that the proposed rates be ordered cancelled by the commission.

He also declared that rates on coal from southern mines to certain destinations in Georgia and Florida were unlawful and suggested a scale of rates ranging from $1.70 per ton for 100 miles to $3.35 for 700 miles.

The proposed rates were filed with the commission February 25 and were suspended until September 25 when mine operators and receivers of coal at many destinations, principally in Georgia, protested. The changes were sought to alter the differential relationships between the various groups of southern mines.

MRS. ALVIN HURT WILL KEEP POST ON G. O. P. COUNCIL

Washington, September 3.—(P)—At the request of President Hoover, Mrs. Alvin T. Hurt, of Kentucky, has withdrawn her resignation as vice-chairman of the republican national committee. The withdrawal was announced tonight by Dr. Hubert Work, retiring chairman of the committee, who is a guest at the White House. Dr. Work said he had received it by telegram today.

Although announcement of the resignation was made sometime ago, no successor had been chosen and it was understood that republican leaders had been unable to make a selection.

Republican leaders have been anxious to avoid any sign of a dispute at this time and are known to have taken steps to have Mrs. Hurt resign her action.

Nelson Predicts Plane To Supplant All Transportation

New York, September 3.—(P)—Telling a radio audience tonight of the first flight around the world in the army plane in 1924, Lieut. Erik Nelson spoke of looking down on the way from Paris to London at the steamers below and voiced the opinion that within a few years those steamers would be as obsolete as the old-time galloons.

Speaking over WPAF and a national hookup, Lieut. Nelson predicted that the army around-the-world flight in which he participated would prove to have been the forerunner of an air transport service linking the nations of the world in such intimate contact that they will be no more inclined to wage wars than the people of Oregon feel like fighting the inhabitants of Florida.

"The airplane will replace other forms of transport," he said. "We have only begun in the development of aviation. As a practical minded aeronautical man I can envision planes carrying 50 or more passengers. Pullman service will be established for overnight runs. Refueling in the air will be done in some cases to curtail time lost in landing."

Lieut. Nelson said he expected to see great air liners flying between the different parts of the world, many of them landing on the water and coming into the harbor like a vessel and mooring to a dock.

MANY SAVANNAH MASONS TO ATTEND DISTRICT MEETING

Savannah, Ga., September 3.—(P)—Approximately 50 members of Masonic lodges in Savannah, accompanied by 40 Rainbow girls, are expected to leave the city tomorrow morning for Statesboro to attend the district Masonic convention at which many lodges will be represented.

The local party will be headed by Raymond Daniel, Atlanta, grand master; A. G. Miller, Macon, past grand master and grand secretary of the Grand Lodge; and Charles L. Bass, of Macon, past grand master and director of Masonic welfare work, all of whom are in Savannah today as guests of Acacia lodge. E. Descombe Wells, Savannah, worshipful master of the district body, will preside at Statesboro.

FREDERICK FORSTER DIES IN HOSPITAL

Prominent Atlantan Was Well-Known in Textile Manufacturing Circles.

Frederick E. Forster, 54, of 1050 Ponce De Leon avenue, died early Tuesday night at a local hospital.

For the past 12 years Mr. Forster served as southern representative for the Draper Company of Massachusetts, manufacturers of textile products, with whom he had been connected for more than 30 years. He was widely known in Atlanta in business and social activities. He was a member of the Capital City club, the Atlanta Athletic club, and the Elks.

Surviving him are his widow and one brother, Henry A. Forster, of New York City.

Funeral arrangements will be announced later by H. M. Patterson & Son.

WOMAN IS SLASHED AND BADLY INJURED IN MYSTERY ATTACK

Miss Mildred Arnold, 24, of 447 Elm street, Tuesday was being treated for wounds received in a mystery attack and police were seeking her assailant—a woman whose name has not been learned.

According to the story told to Patrolman W. D. Nash, Miss Arnold and Howard Stanford, 26, of 775 Pelham street, were enjoying an auto ride Monday night when a taxicab with a woman passenger drove up to their car at the corner of Marietta and Means streets.

The two machines stopped, the two women engaged in a heated discussion, and then the mystery woman drew a razor or knife and assailed her feminine foe, cutting her in the abdomen and on the left arm.

The woman disappeared and Miss Arnold was taken to Grady hospital, where it required 67 stitches to sew up her wounds.

TWO NEGROES HELD FOR GEORGIA MURDER

Police Believe Miller County Farmer Slain for $300 He Carried.

Colquitt, Ga., September 3.—(P)—Indications today that Jeff Davis, 38, whose bullet-pierced body was found yesterday in a creek near here, was killed and robbed before the start of a contemplated trip Saturday from his Miller county farm to his Meigs home, caused authorities to arrest his two negro employees, J. B. Jones and Marion Dennis.

It was believed at the sheriff's office that Davis, whose pockets were empty when the body was found, was carrying approximately $300 in cash Saturday. No trace has been found of the car he used to travel between the two residences.

A coroner's jury was organized today, but adjourned without reaching a verdict. Mrs. Ed Daniels, who furnished Davis with meals while he was at his farm near here, testified that clothing he had expected to take with him to Meigs had not been moved today.

Davis, a former Miller county commissioner, is survived by four children and a brother, Thomas Davis, Meigs postmaster.

ENGLAND'S PREMIER ANNOUNCES ACCORD

Mr. MacDonald was in magnificent speaking form. His speech was practically extemporaneous. His voice was as resonant as always. His accent was perfect. As often as he was called upon to roll the letter "r" so that the word seemed to expand to cover an even greater realm.

He told the assembly that it was an international responsibility and not a national responsibility that Great Britain has in Palestine. He appealed to both Jews and Moslems to unite in support of the British determination to maintain order in the Holy Land. He said that the heat in the assembly hall was stifling, but no one found time to complain, so engrossed were they in listening to the exposition of the British labor government's program for amelioration of world conditions and consolidation of peace.

No Sign of Race War.
The statement by the premier that he would see no sign of race conflict in Palestine, but believed the outbreaks represented pure lawlessness, did not meet with complete agreement among officials close to the mandate section of the league, although some Jewish leaders expressed the opinion that he was entirely correct. They were pleased that Britain would not strengthen its rigid inquiry and apply appropriate remedies to prevent a recurrence of the trouble.

Another declaration by Mr. MacDonald of importance to the world was his expressed belief that the Kellogg peace pact could in some way be made to strengthen the mandate of the League of Nations in its aim to banish war completely. He was convinced that certain clauses of the Kellogg pact could be made to strengthen the mandate.

He referred especially to Articles XI and XV of the covenant as clauses which could be examined with a view to bringing the old covenant into harmony with things that have happened more recently. This linking of the Kellogg pact with the mandate created extraordinary interest in Geneva. It led to a belief that an attempt will be made to bridge that gap between the covenant and the Kellogg pact which has been a sore point in the realization of the league as a possibility.

None Prepared To Say.
How this gap could be filled no one was prepared to say tonight, but the declaration was that the covenant would be renewed to stigmatize as an aggressor nation any country which refuses to arbitrate a dispute.

The private Turkish bath has long been an accepted fact of life. Any man who is in the upper salary class, has a steam room and shower and electric cabinets and the reducing paraphernalia. Of course the swimming pool is the first indication of a well-to-do man's home. In many cases a well-equipped gymnasium is to be found in this neighborhood, also.

MCDONALD TO VISIT U. S., BRITISH BELIEVE.
London, September 3.—(AP)—The British prime minister, Ramsay MacDonald, is expected to visit the United States in the near future, according to a statement by the British press.

A general election in the United Kingdom would certainly give labor a majority. Gossip in political quarters now gives the MacDonald government three years of probable life. Instead of the earlier estimates of two years and it was believed the conservatives rather than take any risk of precipitating general elections would wait until a public opinion poll vote with the government in any critical division of parliament.

Winston Churchill had boldly challenged the labor government to ask for a vote of confidence when parliament reopened but that was long before Chancellor of the Exchequer Snowdon and his colleagues began to be called upon to answer questions.

The MacDonald-Davies combination has made reductions were then also only in the embryo stage. A general election would certainly give labor a majority.

ZEPPELIN TO LAND AT HOME TODAY

S. America that the big craft was flying into headwinds near Bordeaux, France.

The Graf Zeppelin's radio operator said Captain Lehmann flew over Santander to honor King Alfonso, of Spain, who was believed to be at that resort.

Visibility was poor and strong headwinds were reported in the region which lies before the Zeppelin.

After escaping storms in the Azores island area—where the big airship rolled heavily in the gale—Captain Lehmann brought the Graf Zeppelin toward Europe along a southern route which swung to the north coast of Spain as he neared land.

The Spanish coast was sighted at 4:30 p. m. G. M. T. (11:30 a. m. E. S. T.), the dirigible radioed to ships at sea.

The dirigible's flight from Lakehurst across the Atlantic ocean was by no means as uneventful as the last trip on which Dr. Hugo Eckener, who is now in the United States, set a new record to Friedrichshafen of 55 hours and 25 minutes at an average speed of 54 hours and 15 minutes at 11:30 a. m.

The Buzzards Always Gather

Where the Lion Makes His Kill

By Robert Quillen

Within recent months considerable publicity has been given to stowaways; and since the news value of an incident is determined by its rarity, the public is made to believe that thefts of transportation are few.

Knaves of this type are not rare however. They are so numerous, in fact, that the business of hooking on behind might be called a national characteristic.

The stowaway's purpose is to steal a ride—to get somewhere without paying his way or working his way. And that purpose is achieved by thousands, possessed of more gall than honor, who never travel anywhere except on the road to success.

When one American makes good in any field of endeavor, a score of imitators sneak into the spotlight to steal his bows and snatch part of his profits.

A motion picture meets with popular approval, and within a month rival producers are working night and day to make one like it.

A stage success is followed by half a dozen fourth-rate productions that copy its scenes and steal its lines.

Every comic strip that becomes popular, every newspaper feature that wins a following, every vaudeville skit that goes over big, every song that strikes a popular chord, every innovation and every manufactured article that wins public approval—all without exception are robbed of their last monopoly by jacksals that gather out of the darkness of obscurity to snatch a fragment of the kill.

Stowaways, all of them—stealing what they haven't the wit to earn—filching the rewards of better men—riding to success on the other fellow's vehicle.

Copyright and patent laws prevent outright theft of labels and trade names and prevent the exact copying of literary works, but the country is full of imitators who live on the life of the land by stealing enough to give their sorry product the benefit of another man's genius.

Let all decent sportsmen adopt that plan and the stowaway will trouble us no more.

Hollywood, Cal., September 3.—Now that the village is installing cooling systems in its Beverly Hills mansions, there are possibilities galore for interesting results.

Another picture players, faced with the added burden of memorizing lines, and with early rising and late going still to their credit, cannot stand the enervating results of too much heat.

So a few of the colony's financial leaders are considering the cooling system for the home.

DR. DURHAM'S ADDRESS.

Yesterday before the Civitan Club an address by Dr. Plato Durham, of Emory university, stirred the strong emotions of his hearers and deserves to be repeated from the house-tops of Atlanta. Elsewhere is published an available synopsis of the address.

His theorem of the imminent need to metropolitanize the school interests of Atlanta is a preachment for a citywide revival of the old "Atlanta spirit" to which is owed the survival and the splendor of our present metropolis.

It was upon Dr. Durham's suggestion that the recent accord upon the agitated schools merger proposition was brought about. The same spirit of give and take in the interest of harmony of program and action should fashion our policies as to the educational, recreational, moral welfare and crime suppression interests of the city, and it is to this end that Atlanta's school problem must be solved.

It is high time that the high-minded, progressive people of Atlanta should insist that petty politics and office profiteers shall be sent to the rear, put out of the public agenda, and the greater rights of the city as a whole become the study and charge of the whole community, regardless of ward lines, and, above all, of petty politics.

The thoughts expressed by Dr. Durham are the unuttered thoughts of the intelligent and progressive people of Atlanta. They should put them forward and follow them to their beneficial operation.

CLEMENCY SERVING CRIME.
One of the current encouragements to crime is the unwise and too free use of clemency by the executives of many states. This fact comes strikingly to the fore in a protest by Judge Jones, of the Montgomery circuit court in Alabama, against the granting by Governor Graves of stays of sentence pronounced upon a notorious law-breaker.

Judge Jones presented to the governor the records that show that the sentenced man has been convicted 19 times in six courts in Alabama and is now under sentence of 12 months at hard labor for vagrancy, imposed by Judge Jones in his court.

It is hard for the average citizen to imagine how the law can have any terrors for such a habitual criminal, especially when his friends have influence enough to gain executive clemency. In this particular case the governor has granted two stays of the sentence and now another is asked for.

It is equally hard to conceive how in such a case a governor can find inducing and justifying reasons for keeping the outlaw "immune from the full payment of his debt to the law and to society."

There may yet arrive a time and a public sentiment which will strip from governors the prerogative of clemency to criminals and lodge it in some more just and reliable tribunal owing a higher respect to the security of the people than to the feelings of criminals.

UNCLE SAM IS TAX FREE.
The legislature decreed that there shall be no more tax-free gasoline available to county, town and city officers and employees, either while on official business or joy-riding. From now forward they must dig up that high-gear 6 cents per gallon rake-off for Mother Georgia. It is a very just regulation, since the counties and their municipal organs are to get one-sixth of all the gasoline taxes repaid to them as road subsidies. And that one-sixth is largely more than all the counties and towns will pay in gas taxes.

The only party who is to get by at the filling stations without coughing up his 6 per is Uncle Sam and his helpers. The supreme court of the United States has held in cases of the Panhandle-Oil Company vs. Mississippi, 277 U. S. 213, and in Grayburg Oil Company vs. Texas, 278 U. S. 582, that gasoline purchased for the use of the United States is not subject to a state tax.

Pennsylvania has just agreed with the federal officials to avoid the collection and subsequent refunding of the gas tax by having all filling stations and gasoline dealers recognize federal exemption cards to be carried by employees of the departments of the general government. Georgia will be asked to make the same agreement, as will all the other states. The arrangement will serve both governments by cutting out a mass of troublesome and costly accounting, and the states should readily join in such agreements.

ROBERT TOOMBS DUBOSE.
The unlooked-for death of Honorable Robert Toombs DuBose at Athens on Monday, sends a wave of sorrow into every part of the state. He had just finished ten days before a service of sixty days in the general assembly of the state, a service not novel to his experiences as a state publicist. During the recent session he was constant, alert and deeply concerned for the conservation of the state's honor and powers.

He was the son of General Dudley M. DuBose, gallant general in the Confederate army and one of the constitution-makers of the state; and the grandson of the incomparable and unforgettable "Lion of Wilkes," General Robert Toombs. From these forbears the late Representative DuBose derived those rich elements of character, courage and loyalty which made him a valued servant of the people and an ornament to his profession and social environment.

His recent colleagues in the general assembly, the people of Clarke county and the state at large, mourn for a noble man as his body enters into rest and his spirit goes again to Him who gave it.

SAVING NATIONAL POWER.
The interest which Senator George takes in enlarging federal aid to rural vocational education is a strong evidence of his statesmanlike vision. He has the conviction growing more common with those who "think through" their studies of rural life and its economic necessities, that the young people who are practically foreordained to farm life and the lesser industries of the countryside and small towns, should be supplied as fully as possible with the mental and manual equipment to make their limited lives endurable and profitable.

It will be a decadent calamity rather than a delectable achievement when our America becomes mechanized and electrically over-industrialized, and when the production of foods and fibers is lamentably less than the demands of their non-producers and consumers.

It will be a more poignant calamity to have the youth of rural America uniformly obtain the education that the only life worth living is that to be found in the occupations and pleasures of the towns and cities. That would decimate the strength and spirit of the manpower of the nation, finding us defensively weak in any emergency of national peril.

If Senator George will persist in his pressure for greater national aid to vocational education in the rural regions of the nation, and share in its successful promotion, he will not only make his name a treasure to millions of his growing countrymen, but affix it permanently in the roll of the nation's wisest and most famous benefactors.

THE WILLEBRANDT WAIFS.
The New York Times and other papers in its syndicate have been publishing the chapters of "The Inside of Prohibition," by Mabel Walker Willebrandt, former assistant attorney-general in charge of prohibition functions of the federal department of justice.

Although there was a thinly-veiled intent all through her conduct to pillory the responsible officials of the Harding-Coolidge administration who would not let her do Carry Nation stunts in prohibition enforcement throughout the country, her revelations are commonplace.

All that is valuable in her screed is the ex-official confession that for its nine years of existence on paper, in the constitution and in the Volstead act, prohibition has not been earnestly and honestly enforced. She argues principally to prove that the failure has been due to lack of cooperation between the state and federal enforcement agencies. The generally prevalent idea all over the republic has been and is to "let Uncle Sam do it" and Uncle Sam has fallen down on the job.

Health Talks
BY DR. WILLIAM BRADY.

ATHLETICS VERSUS HYGIENE.
Unsophisticated or misinformed laymen—and that means the most of 'em—too readily assume that anything which is sanitary is salutary. X-rayed mail carriers and news stands groan under the unbecoming load of baklava, junk and purulence that is marketed by the vendors who know how to take full advantage of this popular fancy. The essential secret of the noble American art of snatching a sucker from his loose change, is that regular and fastidious habits of eating and drinking are discarded and "pills and potions" discarded and the prospects sold on the idea that all efforts heretofore have failed because they were not "get at the underlying cause of the trouble, which is, of course, the wrong combination of vitamins or mineral elements, or lack of sufficient vitamins, or purport to provide, or the wrong brand of vitamins, or ignorance of your secret nerve builder. It doesn't take much persuasion or even sense to sell the average business layman on this idea. His education prepares him for the sorry role he plays in this national pastime. He yearns to be your subscriber, customer or client with the ardor and abandon that Mr. Barnum's patrons manifested when he introduced his great Therapeutic galumphs. Among the rack of magazines that exalts purely as a market place for these trick health schemes is not a few that purport to be devoted to other interests than health, and these enjoy a considerable vogue among even college students, but then, no small share of our forty million readers are admitted to college these days.

Certainly there is nothing in athletics or athletic excellence that reflects upon an individual's intellectual capacity or degree of intelligence. The other hand athletic ability by no means signifies that the winner of the contest is a healthy person. It would seem that the common notion that physical training induces good health is based, at least in part, upon an unfortunate misconception that is still cherished by many physicians, namely, that there is such a state or influence as "resistance," some "vital endowment" that protects one against disease in general or against certain disease conditions in particular. "True, an individual must have immunity, natural or acquired, in order to escape a given disease; but immunity, as scientifically recognized, has no bearing on the rapid notion of "resistance." Now these old time doctors, seeking medical editors or professional writers who cling to the obsolete term "resistance" in order to bolster up some of their quaint medical theories, a while longer, confer a boon on the Great American People. The puzzle is, how can any one who purports to be intelligent take seriously anything at all that he reads in a periodical that exploits or propagates such flagrant errors.

A. The United States, Great Britain, Japan, France and Italy.

SERMONS TO LIVE BY
BY ELAM FRANKLIN DEMPSEY, D. D.

Text: "I made haste, and delayed not to keep thy commands." Psalm 119:60.

What a contrast between this man and that other one who "resolved," and re-resolved, and still was damned. Procrastination has destroyed its tens of thousands, both for time and eternity.

Delays are dangerous to body, mind and spirit, to eternal destiny and to earthly estate, why yield yourself to them?

Well does Solomon say, "Whatsoever thy hand findeth to do, do it with thy might; for there is no work, nor device, nor knowledge, nor wisdom, in the way, whither thou goest." Eccle. 9:10.

Well does Mary say unto us across

THE WORLD'S WINDOW

BY PIERRE VAN PAASSEN.

The Kings' Tavern.

Parisians have a saying that if you sit long enough at one of the sidewalk tables of the Cafe de la Paix you are bound to see everybody you know. This summer when every native deserted the French capital and the city was given over to the invading army of tourists from across the Atlantic and across the Rhine, the matter might have seemed more difficult. Still the old saying holds good.

King Fuad of Egypt was in Paris during the month of August. Not officially, not even wearing his red fez. That piece of headgear would make the Egyptian monarch a little too conspicuous in the night establishments of Montmartre. Then the sultan of Morocco was also in Paris. And that for the same reason. Still both monarchs were under close surveillance by agents of the French government, and however distasteful this shadowing must have been to the two rulers, as evidenced by their repeated attempts to seal a march on the secret servant agents, escapades which are faithfully recounted in the Paris newspapers with a lot of inaccurate details, they both realized it was for their own good and even had their advantages. When King Fuad sat at the Cafe de la Paix one afternoon to have a word with his secretary, he noticed that the men who had been his constant companions during his stay, fell into conversation with other men at a neighboring table. A few questions later and he was astonished to learn that the others were accompanying the sultan of Morocco. The respective monarchs were brought out to each other, and presently with a couple of attendants, their seats, the two men moved a few seats closer and they fell into conversation. Later they departed in the same car, which made the task of the two patrol of the secret service so much easier.

M. Poincare's Retirement.
Now that M. Poincare is, temporarily at least, out of the political game in France, his life and work are for the first time examined at leisure by various writers. Casting a glance over the ensemble of his legislative and literary work on the subject of M. Poincare, one is struck by the little love or affection he is held. He is admired and praised and even his most ruthless critics are forced to recognize his integrity and patriotism, but none speaks a word of affection or esteem on the man who has given unsparring aid and energy for France. He could have retired long years ago after his term as president of the republic came to an end, but he took on new burdens when the inflation period began, knowing full well that his task would be an unenviable one and totally devoid of glory. Whatever can be said of the man, and some have said very harsh things of him, one point is certain. M. Poincare's family fortune was recently suppressed by the police when he never appeared as a self-seeker. He goes about his work without ostentation or show. Take the recent election and his campaign. CHARLOTTE ACCEPTS $80,000 LIBRARY FUND

Rosenwald Appropriation To Be Used in Developing County-Wide System.

Charlotte, N. C., September 3.—(Special.)—The Charlotte library board has announced acceptance of a conditional appropriation of $80,000 from the Rosenwald fund to be used during the next five years in developing a county-wide library system by which, according to the conditions of the gift, "adequate library service shall be made available to all the people of the county, rural and urban, white and negro." Twenty thousand dollars of the gift is available for 1930, in consideration of which the library board will raise in Mecklenburg county an equal amount to the regular revenues of the library and taught to care for the to meet similar conditions in connection with the succeeding installments of the Rosenwald gift and at the end of five years will undertake the entire support of the enlarged program. Books will be distributed through all the schools of the county, and the children will be trained in the use of the library and taught to care for the books. In addition, other means of distribution will be devised in order to make the services of the libraries accessible to everybody in the county. Miss Anne Pierce, head of the Charlotte Public Library, has been largely instrumental in securing the appropriation and in stimulating local interest to meet the conditions, while the Rosenwald fund has been represented by Clark Foreman, of Atlanta, who has charge of this branch of the fund's work.

It is understood that this is the second big library appropriation made by the Rosenwald fund in connection with a plan which, it is believed, will make millions of dollars ultimately available for county library service throughout the south, the other being a five-year grant totaling $20,000 to Davidson county, N. C. The fund has already definitely set aside $500,000 for immediate appropriation to communities which wish to co-operate in the plan.

HUSBAND AND WIFE HELD IN INFANT'S DEATH RELEASED

Mr. and Mrs. Ponton Jacobs, who have been held in the Fulton tower for the last two weeks under charges of responsibility for the death of their baby daughter, Daisy, were released Tuesday on their own recognizance on an order signed by Judge E. D. Thomas of the Fulton superior court.

Assistant Solicitor-General John H. Hudson agreed to the promulgation of the order. Mr. Hudson said he did not believe the case ever would be brought to trial as the state thus far has been unable to secure evidence which the solicitor's office thought necessary for conviction.

The Jacobs were charged with the responsibility for the death of the child in a true bill which asserted they had neglected it. Their release Tuesday was obtained by Attorneys J. O. Ewing and Charles A. Barlow, who had been appointed by the court to defend them and who had volunteered their services to the impoverished couple.

1,200 TEACHERS REPORT FOR WORK AT CITY SCHOOLS

Registration of students of the Atlanta public school system was begun Tuesday morning with prospect that the total will hit the 64,000 mark before the end of the week, and at the same time Atlanta's 1,200 teachers reported for the week of normal training which precedes the opening of the fall term each year.

Willis A. Sutton, superintendent of schools, who has just returned to the city following his vacation, was in conference with H. Reid Hunter and Miss Mary Foster, assistant superintendents of schools, over minor changes.

"Everything is shipshape for the opening of school," said Mr. Sutton, "save the plumbing and heating equipment in some of our buildings. There was no appropriation made for these, but we hope to arrange for repairs in some manner before cold weather. We expect our largest attendance term this year and our most successful."

Registration of all pupils for the Fulton county elementary and high schools will begin today simultaneously with the first normal for teachers, which will be at the Fulton High school, Superintendent Jere A. Wells announced Tuesday.

The normal classes will be conducted throughout the remainder of this week, Mr. Wells said. School authorities have arranged a schedule of work to give all teachers at least five or six hours of normal work before the reopening of the schools next Monday.

TABLE SHOW HELD BY LOCAL GROUP OF RABBIT RAISERS

As a forerunner of the large rabbit and cavy show to be held at the Southeastern fair in October, rabbit breeders of Atlanta recently exhibited nearly 100 animals at a table show held at the home of R. H. Bellinger, 640 Bonaventure avenue. The show was sponsored by the Atlanta Rabbit and Cavy Breeders' Club.

Judge I. W. Taylor, of Hapeville, placed the awards. Those entering rabbits were R. N. Anderson, J. H. Cash, T. B. Clarkston, Frank Crespo, E. M. Davis, J. F. Head, Hugh B. Holcomb, C. W. Isbell, A. J. Kaiser, Mrs. W. M. Leake, Mrs. F. R. Mason, J. G. Smith, D. Taylor, L. W. Taylor and F. L. Woods.

The Marines Who Wouldn't Fight! Told by "Hard-Boiled" Butler

("Don't Fire a Shot.")

The Cold Stream Guards had their band in China. So the United States marines detailed there, not to be outdone, organized one themselves. "While the music was not as good as that of the Guards, there was very much more of it," observes General Butler, who commanded the marines.

This is the fourth of eight articles in which Major-General Smedley Darlington Butler is telling the diverting story of the bloodless conquest of China by the United States marines he took out there in 1927 to protect American lives in the country's raging civil war.

BY SMEDLEY DARLINGTON BUTLER.

Major General U. S. M. C.

(Copyright, 1929, by The North American Newspaper Alliance.)

Shanghai is a wicked city. I once say it is one of the wickedest in the world. Liquor, good, bad and indifferent, flows freely there. Out-cast women from the nations of the world are gathered in Shanghai.

Our marines were young. Most of them had come from farms in the great midwest; some of them had never been in a city before they enlisted in the marines. "To see the world," only a few had tasted Maj. Gen. Butler, liquor.

Temptation was all around, and I had learned in previous campaigns that the way to keep men in health and out of trouble is to keep them occupied. The marines are a high-spirited outfit, and once we indicated to them that they might be outclassed by the Cold Stream Guards they had the needed incentive to avoid temptation and keep on striving.

Then, too, we knew that if they were working to keep clean and healthy, and interested in their appearance of their uniforms and equipment, their morals would be higher; they would be better fighting men and at the same time better good ambassadors and more able to carry out our policy of friendliness with everyone.

Incidentally, the Cold Stream Guards had a fine band of about 150 pieces. We had none. That would have been some $20,000, bought the brassiest and noisiest band instruments available, and ordered out every marine who had ever played an instrument or thought he could play one.

We practiced in secret. Soon we had a band of 300 pieces, and while the music was not as good as that of the guards there was very much more of it. The marines were satisfied.

We had to do these things to keep those eager boys of ours happy and content. We hired the biggest hall in Shanghai, and later the biggest one in all Tientsin, and held regular meetings of the men. At these gatherings we explained carefully to them why we were in China, what the situation was, and what our conduct and attitude were to be.

"The Marines Are Warned." . . . You men must realize," we would tell them, "that all you have to do to start trouble is to fire one shot. We don't want that. We have only one mission in China. That is to protect American lives. There is no war. The marines, therefore, must not abuse the Chinese."

"The Chinese are smaller than we are; they are a different race, and Americans are always kind to those smaller and weaker. If it ever becomes necessary to fight to protect our citizens, I, personally, will give the order. Your great battle will be to keep up your spirit and maintain your health and morale. We are here for only one purpose; to protect the lives of our people."

In the huge hall we had rented we arranged all sorts of military and athletic competitions, fostering a spirit of friendly rivalry among the various organizations of the command.

One afternoon I went into the hall with a group of Americans living in China. I had been telling these people about what great warriors our marines are. And there, at a ping pong table, were two big six-foot marines with their bayonets and guns in left hands and ping pong bats in their right hands. A gun in one hand and a ping pong racket in the other!

Someone suggested that this would please our people at home, that it showed preparedness and pacifism in one to the nth degree. But whether it was baseball, billiards or ping pong it gave the men something decent to do and helped keep them out of trouble.

Of course they were drilled regularly. The other allied powers joined in a perimeter defense of the foreign settlements, and as we were avoiding all entangling alliances we did not join with them but formed an interior protecting force, ready to move, by motor, at a moment's notice to any point whenever an emergency arose.

Less than a month after I arrived in China—on April 11, 1927, to be exact—we got an inkling of what war in China really meant. That day we received word that General Chiang Kai Shek, one of the powerful southern war lords, had organized a special murder squad of 3,000 soldiers to do away with all the "reds" in the Chinese part of the city. The "party" was to start next morning.

An Effective Method, Anyway. As per schedule, the row did come off and all that day there was fighting. Several hundred Chinese "reds" lost their heads. Colonel Miller, of our forces, went as close to the meeting of the "murder club" as he dared, but the rest of us stayed home.

Whatever one may think of such a method of ridding a country of "reds," this much must be said for it—it is exceedingly effective.

But then life is very cheap in China. The Chinese are fatalists and they do not fear death. For that reason they would make excellent soldiers. Their leaders, however, are not of the best. Their military training is not first-class and too many of them are easily bought. Unlike coolies, the army leaders seem not to be fatalists.

Many of them have most unusual ideas concerning life and money—not different from the ideas of a group of merchants in Tientsin who found themselves cheated of several millions by a shrewd and not too honest promoter.

An exporting concern which had set itself up without a foreigner to guide its destiny failed. A few banks went down as a result. The stockholders met and looked over the assets. They found the best asset was the insurance on the life of the promoter—the man who had caused them to invest their money and had then robbed them. The promoter was released. The just asked why they made this request when only two weeks ago they had pleaded for the man's imprisonment.

"Well," said the spokesman, "he is too smart to be in jail. We raise communicated with him and he has promised if we get him out he will organize another company, then rob it, and give the money to us."

The promoter was released, undoubtedly for some other reason, and when I left Tientsin he was already organizing the new company.

That $20,000 indemnity. There is another story worth repeating. I heard it from several British officers who vouched for its truth. A British subject had been killed by Chinese bandits in a small town. A gunboat was ordered up the river to see that the officials of the town apologized for the misdeed and that the family of the man was compensated financially.

The mayor of the town came down to the wharf, the British captain informed him that an immediate and adequate apology was wanted, and said the town would have to raise $20,000 as compensation. The mayor offered the necessary apology, but said the town didn't have $20,000, or even 20,000 cents. The captain, who had his instructions, said that unless the money was forthcoming in 48 hours he would be required to chop off the heads of the mayor and the town's elders. The next day the governor of the province came down and said that there wasn't $20,000 in the whole province and that, at any rate, it was much cheaper to elect a new mayor and elders.

But an hour before the time set for the execution the mayor and the elders came hurrying down to the gunboat and turned in $20,000 in gold.

"Two days ago you told me the town didn't have 20,000 cents; yesterday the governor told me that there wasn't $20,000 in the whole province, and now you deliver $20,000 gold to save your neck," the gunboat captain said. "Where did you get the money?"

The mayor, who could speak a little English, answered: "Ship come up river this morning with missionary money. This good mission to save mayor's head."

Our good friends who contribute to foreign missions must not be misled by this story. Even though it was not considerably exaggerated, as I assume it may have been, it is no doubt an isolated instance.

But the Chinese sometimes get that way. They are a smart people. Their crooks are smart. In fact, one incident that came to my attention there caused me to believe that the Chinese crooks are even smarter than Philadelphia crooks, and from my experience in that city as director of public safety I know Philadelphia crooks are mighty smart.

One Way to Get a Clock. In the United States court there—and we have our own courts for our own people—two Chinese came in during a session. They brought in a ladder and leaned it against the wall, on which was hung a handsome big clock.

The judge stopped the proceedings and had the interpreter tell the Chinese to make less noise, to be very careful not to drop the clock, and to take it out the door without knocking it against a wall. They replied, through the interpreter, that they would do it quietly and not injure the clock.

So they took it down without damaging it and no one has seen the clock since. Everyone thought they were taking it out for repairs, but they were just a pair of thieves who wandered in. They have a nice, expensive marble clock, and the judge told them to do it. And they handled it very carefully in taking it out.

Many of the Chinese generals, of all factions, while lacking the military knowledge generally demanded for such posts, were as adept in chicanery as these smart crooks.

NEW ADDRESSES ASKED

Information Will Lighten Postoffice Work, Large Says.

With thousands of Atlantans occupying new homes since the annual moving day, postoffice officials are faced with the task of locating as many new addresses.

Many notifications of changes have been received by Postmaster E. K. Large, but not enough to make his task an entirely simple one and he urgently requests that such information be given in as soon as possible.

Jury Reports Monday. Judge S. H. Sibley Tuesday ordered the federal grand jury, October term, to report Monday morning when the adjourned session will convene. The verdict, which already has been prepared, will take about three weeks to complete, it is estimated.

Rapid improvement in the condition of Old King Cotton, down with his usual summer siege of chills and fever, is an item of daily news of great cheer to his dependents, who have become worn by arduous labors of sopping up the Niagara-like overflows of his crop.

The temperature of the old gentleman, expressed in terms of dollars and cents, has risen from an August 11 sub-normal range of 18.14 to 19.00 for the various contracts to a somewhat healthier range of 19.35 to 20.00, yesterday.

This represents an increase in value of approximately $5 a bale since August 10, on futures contracts. Spot cotton has emulated the futures market in a more reserved degree, advancing from 18.10 to 19.00, or $4.50 a bale in that period.

Cotton prices are definitely approaching a point where exchange transactions may be termed a "grower's market."

That is, prices are advanced to a point where cotton growing is profitable to the planter. In fact, the future holds more of promise than any time in the dark, dark past. Although immediate prospects are not such a nature to influence heavy commitment on the futures markets, it firmly believed by experts, after review of the crop situation, that a sharp advance is likely in the next week immediately following the government crop report due Monday, September 3. Bearing on the market immediately are reports of an end to the drought in Texas and Oklahoma. For several

Weather conditions as reported day after day at present must be discounted, until the government report is issued, for bulletins for the government report from various sections of the belt are presumptively

For this reason, the market will be likely to waver on daily bulletins until the government report. Confirmation of private estimates is expected to turn prices upward sharply.

Evidence that the market is controlled by weather features in the July's news is shown in statistical reports on exports, which for the seven months ending in July were 3,255,454 bales compared with 3,758,290 bales last year over the same period.

For the week ending August 30 the available supply increased 4,815 bales compared with a decrease of 113,000 bales the preceding week. From such figures, it would appear that traders are ignoring the supply situation at present time in their concentration on the crop nearing the market. They are satisfied, apparently, that the supply is too small, and no changes will have but little effect on the supply condition, as compared with weather conditions and its effect on the growing crop.

It is at such a time the grower needs to exercise great caution. It is so at such a time the federal farm board and co-operative marketing boards should be especially alert.

child serve in excellent fashion, by selling out cotton reserves to the trade as needed, thereby keeping prices at a fairly steady level.

There is no doubting the efficacy of the co-operative plan for marketing purposes. Certainly no farmer would wish such a mule to each end of his plow.

It is just such a foolhardy condition that arises when two of them go to market and are forced to bid against one another in order to sell their product, instead of pulling together and making the purchaser do the bidding.

correction of a recent paragraph in this column declares that a statement in connection with the aid rendered, or not rendered, by the farm board to cotton growers is incorrect. It mentions a 25 per cent loan on cotton of the new crop. The farm board has agreed to lend

In short, the loan is only an advance, and does not protect the borrower who must take the then existing price, minus the amount of his loan. The loan will help in one way:

The loan, or advance, then is not usually "farm aid" in the classification planned when the board was organized.

The Garside Bureau of Boston in a report said there has been further serious deterioration in the Texas andolina crop. The Fossick bureau of Memphis estimated the indicated crop at 14,788,000 bales. The lowest estimate coupled with the pessimistic side report was responsible for

Trading was quite active in the spot market last week. Sales for the week 131 bales against 101,940 bales for corresponding week last year.

New York, September 3.—(AP)—

With the bull party still in the saddle and riding still harder, the stock market entered the new month today, but progress became increasingly difficult during the afternoon, and before the close of the session some of the ground gained earlier in the day was lost.

More than half a hundred issues were hurled up 2 to nearly 10 points to record high levels, including such leaders as American Telephone, United States Steel, International Paper, Chesapeake and Ohio, and Southern Railway. Recessions of 1 to 5 points from the best levels of the day were made by a number of issues, but the market in the afternoon.

Trading was in tremendous volume during the forenoon, the ticker dropping nearly 20 minutes behind the market, the trading slackened up considerably as the upward movement lost force. Selling was attributed largely to the fact that the top of the uptrend late last week was proceeding too rapidly, and weakening the technical position of the market.

Fairly heavy calling of shares during the afternoon also caused uneasiness, but call money held at 9 percent.

The credit outlook was a factor turning some traders into the path of the uptrend.

Outstanding points in the day's business were announcement that Montgomery Ward's August sales reached a new high record 48 percent over the same month of 1935, and a report that one copper producer had raised the domestic price 1-4 of a cent to 18-1/4 cents a pound.

Automobile production reports for August varied, Chevrolet showing a substantial reduction, while Buick and Packard showed gains over the like month of last year.

United States Steel was again pushed forward as a leader during the afternoon, when it was pushed up about 6 points to a record price at 261 3/4, but it lost about two-thirds of its gain in the afternoon.

Several of the utilities were hurled upward, American Water Works, American Power and Light, International Telephone, Public Service of New Jersey and Standard Gas and Electric reaching new high levels in the gains.

Vick Chemical, which has been comparatively quiet for some time, was in active demand, rising a couple of points to a new top. The dividend rate was recently increased, and changes in management, as well as expansion plans, were announced last week.

Food shares were a strong group, Corn Products, Fleischmann, and Borden's Condensed Milk all reached new peaks. Other shares to reach new peaks included R. R. Reduction, American Type Founders, American Bank Note, and Investment Trust, General American Tank, Otis Elevator, and Union Carbide.

Aluminum turned irregular, Allegheny Corporation, Reading, and Norfolk and Western sold up 2 to 7 points to new tops, while Acheson, New York Central, and Nickel Plate all advanced 1 to 2 points.

Providing the United States Freight, which has a sharp rise since its recent listing on the "big board" tumbled more than 10 points in the afternoon.

RED PILOTS TO CROSS PACIFIC ON U. S. FLIGHT

Four Russians Hope To Be First To Make Hop.

Khabarovsk, Siberia, U. S. S. R., September 3.—(AP)—Eager to win for the Soviet Union the honor of being first to cross the Pacific Ocean by airplane over the eastward route, the famous quartet of Red army aviators arrived here today in their airplane, "The Land of the Soviets."

They thus completed the first 5,000-mile stage of their 13,000-mile flight from Moscow to the United States in 55 hours actual flying time. This Amu river port in far eastern Siberia marks the end of the first overland stretch across the vast European and Asian domain of the Soviets.

Here the wheels will be replaced by pontoons in preparation for the long ocean flight. The course from here will lie across Sakhalin and the Sea of Okhotsk to Kamchatka peninsula. They are expected to arrive at Petropavlovsk within a week. That will be their last stop in Asia and their course will then carry them across the Pacific along the far-flung line of the Aleutian islands.

Semyon Shestakov is the chief pilot with Philip Volotov as second pilot, Dmitri Eufayev as mechanic and Boris Stierlingov as navigator. From Sitka, Alaska, they will fly to Seattle, San Francisco and New York, which they hope to reach in three weeks.

The flight from Petropavlovsk to Alaska which will be the first attempt is regarded as exceedingly difficult because of the fact that in September there are only 12 hours of daylight a day. Much night flying will apparently be necessary.

The aviators left Moscow on August 23. They had started on August 1 in a similar plane bearing the same name, but crashed in the wilds of Siberia near Chita three days later. The plane was wrecked but none of the occupants were injured.

Before starting the leader of the expedition had said that if his flight was successful it was proposed to establish in 1931 an air line between Russia and the American west coast as the continuation of the present trans-Siberian Air Service. The Land of the Soviets has two engines each developing 1,200 horse power.

THREE KENTUCKY OFFICIALS TO FACE TRIAL IN JANUARY

Frankfort, Ky., September 3.—(AP) Trial of all cases involving former state officials still pending before the Franklin circuit court were continued today until the January term of court.

The defendants in the cases are: James A. Wallace, former state treasurer, facing five counts of forgery for alleged altering of returns in the republican primary race for state auditor's nomination in 1927. Wallace originally was sentenced to 12 1/2 years' imprisonment, but was granted a new trial by the court of appeals. Shelton M. Sautley, former insurance commissioner, and E. B. Dishman, former state treasurer, accused of violating law in payment of extra salary to Dishman for caring for securities.

W. H. Shanks, former auditor, accused of misapplying state funds. The Wallace case was continued after Commonwealth's Attorney Wade Hampton Whitley explained that the mandate reversing the former conviction had not been filed. In other cases some suits are still pending before the court of appeals.

IMAGES, VOICES ARE TRANSMITTED AT SAME TIME

New York, September 3.—(AP)—Simultaneous transmission over wires of images and voices was successfully demonstrated here in the studio and laboratory of the Baird Television Corporation.

The demonstration was over wires linking the studio and the special laboratory, several blocks apart, but an official of the Baird company explained the system could as easily be used by radio stations for broadcasting.

Captain W. J. Jarrard, American representative of the Baird company, said arrangements have been made in England and Belgium for regular broadcasting of films of images and sounds, similar to sound motion pictures. He said it was planned eventually to broadcast in this country the images and voices of living persons.

PLAN TO HARNESS GULF STREAM FAILS ON ACCIDENT

Matanzas, Cuba, September 3.—(AP)—With everything in readiness for experiments to test the feasibility of harnessing the gulf stream, Dr. Georges Claude, French scientist, today saw 14 months' work swept away. Alleged carelessness on the part of a marine pipe line broke the entire mile and a half line system, causing a loss estimated at $30,000.

Tonight he said he would continue with the experiments, believing his prior work in Belgium and one year of labor in Cuba show that sufficient energy may be obtained from the fast flowing currents of the gulf stream to provide electrical power to Cuba.

This report was last night ordered closed for 17 hours during the pipe line laying. It was learned tonight that experiments will not be resumed until December and the plant will not be operating until next year.

THREE "WILD WEST" AUTO RIDERS FINED IN POLICE COURT

Years ago when the west was young it was a custom of cowboys to shoot up the town when they felt like celebrating, but Atlanta doesn't tolerate such conduct, according to Recorder Callaway, who was called upon Tuesday to pass sentences on three offenders against the peace and quiet of the city.

The three defendants—C. J. Lanckie, 963 Moreland avenue; B. T. Webb, 1837 Howell Mill road, and E. P. McIntyre, 454 Crew street—turned the vicinity of Ponce de Leon avenue and Piedmont avenue into a shooting gallery last Wednesday night, according to arresting officers. Sleepy citizens objected and called the police.

TEACHER IS JAILED HERE ON SUSPICION IN MOTOR THEFT

H. White Craig, who gives Emory university as his address, is being held on suspicion at Fulton tower, pending an investigation by police how he came into possession of an automobile he was driving when arrested. The car is said to tally with the description of a machine recently stolen in Chicago. According to Detectives J. A. McKibben and S. A. Smith, who arrested Craig, he was unable to explain satisfactorily his possession of the machine.

Craig is said to be a physical instructor at Hoke Smith junior high school and has been a former theological student at Emory university.

GRAVES DECIDES EXTRA SESSION NOT NECESSARY

Montgomery, Ala., September 3.—(AP)—Governor Bibb Graves has definitely decided not to call an extra session of the Alabama legislature.

His decision is contained in a letter which he forwarded today to H. G. Culverhouse, Birmingham, member of the Jefferson county board of revenue, and Mayor Harry Hartwell, of Mobile. Mr. Culverhouse is head of the recently organized Alabama Association of County Commissioners. Mayor Hartwell is president of the Alabama League of Municipalities.

WOMAN'S PURSE CONTAINING $290 IN CASH SNATCHED

Mrs. E. Shienfield's bank account is $290 less today than it should be for Tuesday as she was walking to the bank through the downtown business district she felt her purse containing that amount being jerked from under her arm and, turning, saw two men fleeing through a crowd of pedestrians, one carrying the pocketbook.

JUDGE JEFFRIES TALKS Fulton County Ordinary Heard at Kiwanis Meeting.

The weekly luncheon of Atlanta Kiwanis Club held Tuesday noon at the Ansley hotel was featured by an address by Judge Thomas H. Jeffries, Fulton county ordinary, who urged cooperation of all citizens in the up-building of Georgia.

Bruce Waggoner and Keller Melton, radio and recording artists, entertained the Kiwanians with vocal and instrumental selections. J. R. McNeely was chairman of the program committee for the Tuesday luncheon.

AGED PEANUT VENDER PLAYS JOKE ON MANY

Says He Has Been Left Fortune, Then Makes Will Bequeathing Big Sums.

Aberdeen, S. D., September 3.—(AP) Peter Swen Johnson, of Aberdeen, knows how it feels to be rich even if he isn't.

Having received knocks from the world for over half a century, Peter decided to gain some of its plaudits. He circulated a story that a rich uncle in Canada had died, leaving him $250,000.

Aberdeen began to realize that the old man who sold peanuts here was more than an ordinary individual. Meanwhile, Peter laughed up his sleeve.

Peter made his "will." To the city of Aberdeen he bequeathed $25,000; to a local street superintendent he gave $25,000; to each of his two children he left tidy sums and "kept" the remainder for himself. He filed this "will" with the city commission.

But now Peter is worried. Suppose he should by chance acquire a fortune, would the will filed with the city commission stand? He is thinking of filing a new will.

SEEN HIDING LOOT FROM GAS STATION, NEGRO BOY JAILED

Her suspicions aroused Tuesday morning by a negro boy whom she saw hiding some money in an old tire at the rear of the lunch room where she was employed, at 490 Stewart avenue, Josephine Rogers, 14, of 454 Pryor street, called the police and thereby saved $123 for the proprietor of a filling station at 644 Whitehall street.

The negro, Leon Hard, confessed to Call Officers Freeman and Lafitte that he had robbed the cash drawer of the filling station. The manager of the station, J. S. Hagy, saw the negro slipping away from the station and chased him, the boy making good his escape when he darted behind some buildings.

The negro was carried to the juvenile detention home.

GAS TAXES MOUNT Tennessee Collects $933,445.03 in August.

Nashville, Tenn., September 3.—(AP)—Tennessee collected $933,445.03 in gasoline taxes during August, while the total collections by the excise department of indirect taxes amounted to $1,113,287.45 for the month, the department of finance and taxation announced today. The state tax on malt brought in $14,010.38.

PRINCETON SEMINARY DOCTRINE UNCHANGED

New Board To Maintain Same Standards of Past 100 Years.

Philadelphia, September 3.—(AP)—In a statement issued today and addressed to the alumni, students and friends of the institution, the new board of control of Princeton Theological seminary declared that "there will be no departure from the conservative doctrinal position maintained for more than 100 years."

The seminary will reopen soon under the single board of control established by the Presbyterian general assembly in place of the dual control by two boards.

A group formerly connected with the institution who objected to the single board of control recently announced the organization of a new seminary in Philadelphia to be known as Westminster.

The Princeton seminary statement issued today and signed by the Rev. Dr. J. Ross Stevenson, president of the seminary, was issued in connection with an executive meeting of the new board.

"Not only is the traditional and recognized position of the seminary for

NEGRO GIRL CONFESS STARTING FATAL FIRE

Eight Orphans Died in Industrial Settlement Home.

Hagerstown, Md., September 3.—(AP)—Lawrence Richey, secretary to President Hoover, who sought a week-end and holiday rest at his Catochin Manor fishing camp, was busy for the last two days aiding the Western Maryland forest warden direct a force of 50 men fighting a stubborn forest fire in the Catochin mountains.

The fire burned over about 200 acres of Richey's land Saturday, but did not approach close to his fishing camp, where food and drink for the fire fighters have been furnished since the battle against the flames began on Sunday.

Although the fire, spreading through the timber, brittle dry, from a long drought, did heavy damage to the Frederick city water shed, to the south of the Richey property, the wind was low and the forces under direction of Warden Cyril Klein and Mr. Richey had hopes of gaining control.

The negro girl told officers she was "mad because they whipped me" and described how she threw matches into a heap of rubbish. She was sent to the home by the juvenile court. Soon after she was admitted a small fire damaged the institution.

At Oklona, Miss., the girl was in a detention home where fires started twice under mysterious circumstances. Rosebud was one of the rescuers of the seventy-two orphans who escaped uninjured from the home. Officials of the home did not know eight children were in a bath room upstairs and Rosebud said she thought all children were safe.

Judge Kelley said she was convinced

STOPPAGE OF GAS LINE FORCES SHUTTLE DOWN

Salt Lake City, Utah, September 3.—(AP)—The third transcontinental refueling attempt of the Boeing airplane Shuttle ended against the side of a mountain east of here today when a stoppage in the gas line forced Captain Ira C. Eaker and Lieutenant Thompson to land.

Neither pilot was injured and damage to the plane, consisting of broken wheel and wings, can be repaired, Captain Eaker said. The two men walked to the nearest road and hailed a passing automobile which brought them to Salt Lake City shortly after noon.

Difficulty in connecting up surplus gas tanks was responsible for the trouble that forced the plane down. It was necessary to set up extra feed lines, he explained and an obstruction in one of these shut off the flow of fuel and stopped the engine.

Red Cross HAS PERFECTED THE INNER-SPRING MATTRESS

Red Cross has never sacrificed the principle of quality to the expediency of making sales. Red Cross could have rushed pell-mell into the production of Inner Spring Mattresses more than two years ago, had the makers of Red Cross desired to capitalize the great popularity that has greeted this type of mattress construction. But the Red Cross Mattress engineers have waited. For two years they have experimented and tested, both in our laboratories and in actual use scores of these mattresses of various types of construction. Slowly, carefully, they have eliminated the unsatisfactory features that these early models contained. And not until Red Cross could present an Inner Spring Mattress of perfected design was this announcement made.

Today you may purchase the Red Cross Inner Spring Mattress with definite assurance of years of service as satisfactory and as comfortable as the first night you sleep on it.

To the style-conscious woman the colorful new damask tickings especially designed and woven for Red Cross Mattresses bring a message of smartness and new beauty for the bedroom. One of the four lovely shades, ranging from an exquisite rose to a deep orchid, will harmonize perfectly with the color schemes of your bedroom—your blankets, your walls and your draperies.

New Beauty for the Red Cross Sanitary Layer Felt Mattress

For 47 years the Red Cross Sanitary Layer Felt Mattress has been the world's standard of value, quality and comfort. Now the lovely pastel shades of its smart damask coverings make it also the most beautiful. No other felt mattress has its unique buoyancy, fluffiness and resiliency. None is so clean, so comfortable, so lasting. Delicate machinery takes the new white cotton selected for Red Cross and by a special process completely dusts and cleans it, removing all foreign materials and opening each tiny fibre to the fullest extent to give it the maximum buoyancy. Then the fibres are interwoven and felted to insure longest life and greatest resiliency.

The Smart New "Mayfair" Mattress

$25.00

Is Super-Restful and Ultra-Modern

Expressing perfectly the new tempo in bedroom furnishings, its new damask coverings were woven especially for the "Mayfair" in unusual and brilliant modern patterns. Nor is its beauty and quality only skin deep... it is filled with clean, new Southern cotton, felted by a special process to give it luxurious and lasting comfort. Its Imperial stitching and immaculate rolled edges insure its shapely trimness for years. Here is a fine new mattress with dash and style... ultra-modern, super-restful... at an extremely moderate price.

All Red Cross Mattresses and "Mayfair" Mattresses are packed at the factory in clean, dust-proof packages... so that they may reach you untouched by human hands from the time they leave the factory until they are placed on your beds. See them when you are downtown tomorrow.

The Red Cross "Inner-Spring" $44.50 brings you perfected Inner-Spring construction

Here are some of the costly improvements which Red Cross sleep engineers have built into the perfected Red Cross Inner Spring—and which you can get in no other Inner Spring Mattress.

- 1—Heretofore much of the dissatisfaction with the Inner Spring construction has been caused by the tiny sensitive coils crumpling, falling and meshing together after use. Red Cross has overcome this by not only encasing each of the hundreds of springs in an individual cloth container, but each coil is also sewed on at the top and bottom to a heavy fabric. This is why coils in the Red Cross Inner Spring stay straight and true after years of use.
- 2—All Inner Spring Mattresses have carded cotton between the ticking and the small coils. This is known as a bat. Where cheaply made bats are used the small springs work through and have even been known to come through the ticking. To avoid this Red Cross uses a specially compressed bat made of hundreds of layers of finely spun cotton which is compressed in a special machine. Our experience in the manufacture of luxurious automobile seats has taught us this secret of perfect bat construction.
- 3—Inner Spring Mattresses are so soft and resilient that were often accused of being too soft on the mattress. To avoid this Red Cross has done away with tufts and in their place uses a tape tied construction which is much more expensive to build.
- 4—These features which safeguard the long life of Red Cross Mattresses make their price a little more than similar type mattresses of cheaper construction, but the small difference in cost makes a difference in years of satisfactory service.

PROMINENT ATLANTA CELEBRATE 50TH ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Spratling To Observe Golden Wedding

Golden wedding anniversaries are indeed very rare and such celebrations are enveloped in sentiment and interest of the most unusual nature, and Wednesday, October 2, will round out fifty years since Mr. and Mrs. Fletcher J. Spratling were married in 1879 in the First Christian church in Augusta. Their sons and daughters, Dr. and Mrs. James Hook Spratling, of Macon; Fletcher Guy Spratling, of Louisville, Ky., and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Collier, of Atlanta, will entertain at dinner in their honor at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Collier, 3850 Peachtree road. There will be three generations present at the anniversary dinner, the honor guests, hosts and hostesses, and the grandchildren of these prominent Atlantans, including Misses Pauline and Martha Spratling, and James Hook Spratling, Jr., of Macon; Roy Collier, Jr., and John Spratling Collier, namesake of his grandfather. Among the distinguished guests will be Henry C. Peoples, of Atlanta, who acted as groomsmen at the Hook-Spratling wedding, and is the only living attendant.

Foremost Citizens.

Mr. and Mrs. Spratling are foremost and well-known citizens of this city, and have been leaders here in religious and civic work, and their helpfulness toward charity. They came here more than 35 years ago, locating in West End, and immediately became identified with the West End Christian church, being prouder of the fact that for more than fifty years they have worshipped in this faith. Mrs. Spratling's earliest recollection is that of securing donations to erect this particular church in West End, and she regards this effort as the greatest achievement of her long and useful life. She has been an officer in the Ladies' Memorial Association, continuing as a member after the term of office was over; was vice president of the Atlanta Federation of Women's Clubs under Mrs. Charles J. Haden's regime as president, and has been vice regent of Atlanta chapter, D. A. R. Mrs. Spratling was before her marriage Miss Annie M. Hook, daughter of Judge James Schley Hook, and Emily Harris Hook, and she has retained the beauty that was hers during her girlhood, having lost none of that patrician loveliness and aristocratic bearing.

Deacon in Church.

Mr. Spratling has been a deacon in the Christian church for many years, and is serving in that capacity in Peachtree Road Christian church, where they are members today. He has been interested for more than 20 years in the Southern Christian home, and has been president of that organization. He served as alderman from West End for several years, and has been a recognized leader in political affairs. Mr. Spratling is deputy clerk of the criminal division of Fulton county court. He takes a very active interest in affairs pertaining to the betterment of Atlanta and Georgia, lending his influence and excellent judgment in matters pertaining to the welfare of the people of city and state. Mr. and Mrs. Spratling are beloved and deeply revered by a wide circle of relatives and friends who will offer felicitations upon the rounding out of the fifty years they have so happily journeyed together down life's rosy pathway.

Lighter, Cooler... than sanitary protection has ever been before

KOTEX is so light, so cool, so dainty, that women forget to dread the need of sanitary protection! Even summer cannot affect its wonderful comfort.

Kotex never loses its softness. It simply cannot pack. Many air-cooled layers of Cellulocotton absorbent wadding keep Kotex light and cool through worn for hours. It actually absorbs 16 times its own weight in moisture!

Kotex gives complete protection—without a trace of bulk! Rounded, tapered corners keep it inconspicuous, though worn with thinnest summer frocks... the deodorizing process is doubly comforting in summer... instant disposability means so much. The layers of filler can be adjusted to suit individual needs. Try the new Kotex. It offers a world of comfort!

KOTEX IS SOFT...

1.—Not a deceptive softness, that soon packs into chafing hardness. But a delicate, lasting softness.

2.—Safe, secure... keeps your mind at ease.

3.—Kotex filler is fat lighter and cooler than cotton, yet absorbs 5 times as much.

4.—In hospitals... Kotex is the identical material used practically exclusively by surgeons in 85% of the country's leading hospitals.

Kotex—4c for 12—any drug, dry goods or department store. Kotex Super Size—6c for 12.

Miss Smith Weds Isaac Sewell At Quiet Ceremony

The marriage of Miss Marion Smith to Isaac Sewell, was solemnized Monday afternoon, September 2, at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Smith, on Peachtree road. The ceremony was performed by Rev. T. H. Shackelford, before an improvised altar of rich greenery, a semi-circle of silver candelabra holding slender white burning tapers being placed at the back and casting a soft glow over the impressive scene.

The bride's sister, Miss Lillian Smith, the maid of honor, wore a gown of powder blue chiffon and carried an arm bouquet of sunset roses and valley lilies.

Little Betty Smith, another sister of the bride, was the flower girl. She wore a dainty frock of cream-colored chiffon and carried a basket of pink rosebuds.

The young bride entered with her father, L. A. Smith, by whom she was given in marriage. She wore a gown of duchess satin, fashioned with collar of real lace. Her veil of filmy tulle fell in graceful folds to the floor, from the dainty cap of real lace, which covered her hair.

The bridegroom was attended by Leon Deck, as best man. Following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Smith entertained at an informal reception, and later Mr. Sewell and his bride left for a wedding trip to Chattanooga. Upon their return they will make their home at 168 Twelfth street.

Miss Trotti Gives Tea at Home.

Miss Mary Louise Trotti entertained 40 friends at tea Tuesday from 4 to 6 o'clock at her home on Wilton drive in Decatur. Receiving with Miss Trotti were Misses Marie and Elizabeth Scott and Caroline Riley. Miss Cleo Stead served punch. Others assisting were Misses Lois Richards, Joyce Stead, Nell Scott Barthman, Sara Catherine Terrell and Winnie Hudson.

In the center of the lace covered tea table was a silver basket filled with vari-colored garden flowers. Silver candlesticks held green candles, the four candlesticks being tied with green tulle bows. Silver dishes holding green bonbons alternated with the candles.

Civic Theater League Announces Program of Interesting Events

Miss Agnes Kendrick Gray will be hostess at the gathering of the Civic Theater League in the theater at Fourteenth and Peachtree streets at 8 o'clock this evening. This will be the third in a series of meetings of the body in connection with the membership drive, which will continue through September 15. The group chairmen are especially urged to the present. Members and friends of the organization are invited.

Frank McMullan, president of the Civic Theater league, was host last Sunday at a tea in the theater. Plans for the membership drive were made. The tea marked the opening of the civic theater's first winter season. Gwynne Burrows gave an outline of the past season's activities, telling how the organization grew in a few months to its present status of 125 paid subscribers, a number of sponsors, innumerable patrons and friends, and a place of habitation.

The financial report of Eugene Jones, treasurer, showed good results. Mr. McMullan outlined a tentative program for the fall and winter, which includes the exchange of performances with theater guilds of other cities. This program will appear in the papers at an early date.

The membership campaign is in charge of group leaders, under the general direction of Ashton Chapman, teams chairman. The following members have been appointed as group or team leaders: Mrs. R. Spencer Morrow, Miss Betty Burdette, Miss Emeline Wood, Charles Johnston, Herbert Nellie, Mrs. Lafayette Butler, Miss Polly Vaughn, Gwynne Burrows, Miss Agnes Kendrick Gray, Mrs. R. Spencer Morrow, Mrs. Maffett, Miss Corn Paxton Stewart, Carlos Lynes, Jr., Gwynne Burrows, Miss Betty Burdette, Ashton Chapman, Daniel Whitehead Hickey, Miss Blossom Tucker, Frank McMullan, and others.

Ashton Chapman will be host at the tea in the theater next Sunday afternoon, September 11, at 4:30 o'clock.

A play-reading group will be organized Tuesday evening, September 17, with a view to securing suitable plays for future presentation; and September 19 a play-writing group will be formed, under the leadership of a competent and successful playwright, whose name will be announced later.

This group will include several well-known members of the Writers' Club whose plays have been successfully presented, together with many others, whose talents lead in the direction of play-writing.

Miss Underwood To Be Honored By Mrs. Park

Mrs. Noel Park will be hostess at a bridge-luncheon Wednesday at her home on Peachtree road in honor of Miss Margaret Underwood, a popular member of the younger set, who is leaving September 15 to enter Hollins college. Throughout the home roses, snapdragons and other cut flowers will be used in decorating. The guests will include twelve friends of Miss Underwood, Miss Nancy Kanper, Miss Ida Nevin, Miss Claire Jones, Miss Harriett Wynn, Miss Jacqueline Moore, Miss Dorothy Dobbs, Miss Nancy Frederick, Miss Florence Underwood, Miss Elizabeth Thompson, Miss Frances Clarke, Miss Margaret Underwood and Miss Lora Sharpe.

Pi Omicron To Organize Chapter Here Thursday, Sept. 5

At a dinner meeting at which the Alpha chapter of Pi Omicron sorority will entertain Thursday evening, September 5, at 6 o'clock at the Atlanta Woman's Club, the formal organization and election of officers will take place, also announcement of enrollment will be made which includes many Atlanta women prominent in business and professional circles. A well-known speaker will give an address on "The Value of an Education and Its Continuance." Miss Bertha Simms will be the soloist, accompanied by Mrs. Kate Massey.

Following the movement which is sweeping over every nation of the world for culture and progressive education, there has been formed in the United States within the last year an organization of women with the aim of exterminating the single track mind. Not long ago several young women, grown progressive through their contact with national and international organizations, decided that ultimate and worthwhile success depended upon their development culturally. They looked for by her to broaden their interest and their contacts and to avoid cultural deadness. As a result of their search a national sorority, Pi Omicron, was organized through the University Guild, which is now a little more than a year old, the object of the sorority being to share in the beauties of a cultural and liberal education and to lift one's thoughts out of monotony and drudgery, free the mind from servitude and mob opinions, to train habits of judgment and appreciation of values; to temper passion with wisdom, to dispel prejudice by better knowledge of self, will advance one in the achievement of civilization. So great have the results of this movement been that the business, professional, social and home women have eagerly grasped the opportunity present to them. During the past year chapters of this sorority have been organized in most of the principal cities of the United States and as rapidly as possible chapters will be organized in every city, town and hamlet.

Far-seeing educators, knowing that less than two per cent of the citizens of the United States have the opportunity of securing higher education and that less than one per cent graduate from the universities; have collaborated in making this movement eligible to be called a sorority by preparing material for the University Guild. The Guild program of study is furnished each member following her enrollment in the local and national sorority.

Leader Secured.
Mrs. Richard W. Battle has been secured for program leader of the Alpha chapter. Mrs. Battle is a woman of unusual culture. She received her M. A. degree when she was a young girl. Since her graduation she has received numbers of credits from many of the leading universities of the country. She is the daughter of the late Dr. W. M. Vinegar who for 26 years was president of one of North Carolina's leading institutions of learning.

The Alpha chapter is particularly fortunate in having enrolled among its members Miss Blanche Reed, national president of Pi Omicron sorority. Miss Reed is a member of the Business and Professional Women's Club, the women's division of the Chamber of Commerce, and has the distinction of being the first governor of Georgia of the Women's National Aeronautical Association.

Under the leadership of Miss Ada Booth, who for a number of years has been identified with the business, professional and social life of the city, the Alpha chapter of Pi Omicron will be organized. Associated with Miss Booth in the organization of this and many other chapters are Mrs. Mabel W. Mizell, Miss Helen Knox Spain, Miss Carolyn Rosborough, Mrs. Anne Reynolds and Mrs. Blanche Richy.

Mrs. Ruth White And J. G. Blount Married Monday

The marriage of Mrs. Ruth White and Joseph Gray Blount took place Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the presence of the immediate families assembled in the home of the groom's brother and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Dana Belser, on Peachtree road. Dr. L. C. Christie, of Ponce de Leon Avenue Baptist church, officiated. The bride's little daughter, Miss Martha White, was the only attendant. She wore a dainty frock of green organdy over a slip of flesh-colored satin, and a becoming hat of the same material. The groom wore a suit of green serge and a white shirt with a white bow tie. The ceremony was a simple one, and the couple were married by the Rev. Dr. Christie. The bride and groom were then seated at a table with the bridesmaids and groomsmen. The reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Blount, on Peachtree road. The bride and groom were accompanied by their parents and the bridesmaids and groomsmen. The reception was a very pleasant one, and the couple were congratulated by their friends and relatives. The bride and groom were then seated at a table with the bridesmaids and groomsmen. Mrs. Howard McCutcheon Elected President of Fulton Chapter, U. D. C.

Mrs. Howard McCutcheon was elected president of Fulton Chapter, U. D. C., at the meeting held yesterday afternoon at the Amesley hotel. She succeeds Mrs. L. D. T. Quinby, who has served in this office the past two years, and under whose splendid regime the state convention of Georgia division, U. D. C., met in Atlanta last year with Mrs. Quinby as official hostess, and the Fulton chapter extended the convention invitation.

Serving with Mrs. McCutcheon will be Mrs. H. Huff Davis, first vice president; Mrs. Sue L. Palmer, second vice president; Mrs. Margaret Steadman, third vice president; Mrs. John

Miss McNulty And John Joseph McGee Are Wedded

The marriage of Miss Katherine Stapleton McNulty and John Joseph McGee was solemnized Tuesday morning at 7 o'clock with a nuptial mass at the Sacred Heart church, the Rev. Father Joseph A. Smith officiating.

The bride's only attendant was Miss Pearl Fletcher, who acted as her maid of honor. The groom's best man was James P. Flynn.

The bride wore an original Paton model of Sherwood green with a hat to match. Her only jewelry was an antique gold and jade pendant and two bracelets of exquisite design, which have been in her family for many years.

Mr. McGee and his bride left by motor after the ceremony for Grove Park Inn, Asheville, N. C.

The bride is the only daughter of Mrs. Margaret McNulty Byrne and the late Patrick J. McNulty, of Denver, Colo. Mr. McGee is the son of the late Joseph McGee, prominent citizen of Atlanta, and member of the 19th Georgia Volunteer Regiment during the Civil War, and the late Mrs. Catherine Collieran McGee.

Mrs. Stevens To Be Honored

Mrs. John K. Otley entertains a small company of guests at tea at Brookhaven, the Capital City Country Club, Tuesday afternoon, September 10, in compliment to Mrs. T. T. Stevens, a former Atlantan, who has been residing in Miami, Fla., for the past two years.

Mrs. Stevens is being entertained at a series of social affairs while here, and is exceedingly popular in Atlanta. She is very prominent in social and club life and is one of the leaders in Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs, and past president of Atlanta Federation, her administration having been a very brilliant two years.

Mrs. Harris To Be Honored

Mrs. L. D. T. Quinby entertains at luncheon today at her home on Peachtree circle in compliment to Mrs. J. J. Harris, of Sanderville, who recently entertained at a house-party, and covers will be laid for Mrs. Harris, Mrs. Howard McCutcheon, and Mrs. Fannie May Danby. These Atlantans visited the honor guest at her home in Sanderville last week.

Mrs. Royal Daniel, Jr., who has been the guest of her parents, Dr. and Mrs. Allen D. Johnson, for the past month at their home in Brookwood Hills, returns Thursday to Pittsburgh, Pa., and will be accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Johnson, who will spend September with Mr. and Mrs. Daniel.

Mrs. William Claer Spiker and young son, Deryk, have returned from an extended tour abroad.

Miss Marion Rhyme has returned from New York, where she spent the summer studying. Miss Rhyme also visited Miss Vida O'Neill in Chicago, Illinois.

Miss Gladys Moore and Miss Clara Banks, of Birmingham, Ala., were the week-end guests of Miss Sara Astin.

visit to Jacksonville and Daytona Beach, Fla.

Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Anderson have returned from New York, where they spent some time.

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Wilson and family, who have resided in Avondale for the past two years, will return the latter part of this week to Cincinnati, Ohio, to make their home.

Mrs. Royal Daniel, Jr., who has been the guest of her parents, Dr. and Mrs. Allen D. Johnson, for the past month at their home in Brookwood Hills, returns Thursday to Pittsburgh, Pa., and will be accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Johnson, who will spend September with Mr. and Mrs. Daniel.

Mrs. William Claer Spiker and young son, Deryk, have returned from an extended tour abroad.</

JONES, HOMANS TIE FOR MEDAL HONORS

145 TON LEAD
STRONG FIELD

Evans Among Those To Fall by Wayside at Pebble Beach.

By Alan J. Gould,
Associated Press Sports Editor.
Pebble Beach, Cal., September 3. — (AP) — Somebody must have let loose a few good old-fashioned college cheers before the battle of Pebble Beach began for the national amateur golf championship.

For the second successive day an undergraduate club-swinger jumped out of the pack to give the defending champion, Bobby Jones, a fight for scoring honors. Today hesitant Eugene V. Homans, of Englewood, N. J., and Princeton university, took over the lion-taming role from Gibson Dunlap, Los Angeles collegian and sensation of the opening round. After a half gale had swept hopes all over the seaside course, Homans was tied with Jones for the medal and lead in the 36-hole, two-day qualifying test.

HOMANS BEATS WIND.
Before the wind gathered full force to ruin most prospects of low scoring, Homans finished with 72-73—145. Jones, playing under less favorable conditions, wound up with 70-75—145.

Fighting gamely to the last, Dunlap finished with 69-78—147. The Los Angeles youth at no time was in danger of repeating his record performance of the opening day, losing control of his tee shots and on several occasions narrowly escaping disaster on the ocean's brink.

Jones, in the star, double-barreled encore of yesterday's main act, shook off his youthful rival from southern California but was unable to outshoot the consistent Princeton star, Homans, whose father was a position on the gridiron for the Tigers.

The champion, again trailed by the biggest gallery, had an eight-foot putt on the home green for a birdie four that would have given him undisputed possession of the lead. He missed it, however, by a wide margin just as he had lost opportunities on any number of greens. It was the third time in his career that Jones has figured in a tie for the qualifying medal.

The Georgian, who has won the title four times in the last five years, was deadlocked with Frank Wright, Jr., of Boston, at the Engineers' Club in 1920 and again, in 1923, at Flossmoor, with Chick Evans, of Chicago.
Jones won the medal outright in 1926 at Baltusrol and at Minikahda in 1927.

FINISHES THIRD.
Dunlap not only lost his gallant bid for the low-scoring honors, but was beaten out for third place by two stars from the Pacific northwest, the veteran Dr. O. F. Willing and youthful Donald K. Moe, western amateur champion, both of Portland, Ore. As they did on the first day, Dr. Willing and Moe duplicated each other's scores and were tied with 72-74—146 apiece, just a stroke behind the leaders.

Moe's finish, where he had a chance on the last hole to wrest the lead from all rivals, was the most dramatic of the day. Among the last to finish, the young Oregon is missed with the red sand wedge, on the edge of the 540-yard home green in two, missing his chip for an eagle by so narrow a margin that his birdie 4 was easy.

SCORES SOAR.
Scores were sent soaring by the wind that added to the terrors of Pebble Beach and it took cards of 160 or better to get within the select circle by 32 qualifiers who begin the match play, man-to-man battle tomorrow for the championship. Two hundred rounds will be played and by tomorrow night the field will be cut to eight.

The casualties, under the conditions, were not as heavy as appeared likely when the list of victims included Chick Evans, of Chicago, the two-time former champion and a finalist as recently as 1927. He missed out by only a stroke, taking 81 yesterday and 80 today for 161.

Others to fall by the seaside were the two Canadians, Ross Sounderville, with 162, and Don Carrier, with 169, both former holders of the Dominion title; Fred Wright, of Boston, with 163; Frank Kulp, of Portland, Ore.; Bon Stein, of Seattle; and Keefe Carter, of Oklahoma City, all former holders of the western amateur crown and all finishing with 163. Jack Neville, the California titleholder, played with Jones, had 168, D. Clarke Cochran, of Philadelphia, medalist in 1924, compiled 172, and Sam Perry, of Birmingham, Ala., southern champion, put himself out with 173.

CLOSE CALLS.
There were a number of close calls as well as a scattering few comebacks among the favorites. George Von Elm, of Detroit, 1923 champion, blew himself to a bad 82, but his 75 of the previous day saved him a safe total of 157. Philmar Flinn, of Redlands, Cal., former Harvard player, reversed this process and finished with a 75 today after starting 5-7, and after an 82 of the previous day, also totaling 157. George Voigt, of New York, the 1928 medalist, whose 80 of yesterday put him on the edge, fought his way around in 75 this afternoon and aggregated 155.

All three members of the British continent remained to keep the international flavor in the tournament.
Cyril Toller, the British champion, put his third shot into a tree bordering the home hole and took a 7, but finished his two days' work in 75, 78, 153, well within the fold. T. A.
Bourn, with 80, 77, 157, put on a rally, but his countryman, Eustace
F. Storey, found all kinds of trouble and barely made the grade with 76, 83, 159.

HOMANS SETS PACE.
Homans, former metropolitan champion, got an early start on the field this morning and with careful, steady golf set the pace, his two-day total of 145 representing only one stroke over par on this difficult course.

He kept out of trouble by the

Those inclined to revel in gloomy thoughts might mention the case of one Bob Randolph, a fullback at Georgia Tech last year and now assistant coach at Furman.

Randolph came along steadily in his first two years of play at the Flats and last year he was a mighty pile-driver, durable and gridiron-wise.

Randolph played positively the greatest offensive game at fullback Grant field had seen since the days of Judy Harlan when he ripped the Notre Dame line into shreds. Harry Mehre, Georgia's head coach, said the other day that he never had seen a fullback go so low nor hit so hard nor hold his feet better than did Randolph that day.

"If Rock had had Randolph," added Harry, "the score probably would have been reversed. Randolph was that good."

But here came "Father" Lumpkin, the fullback of a decade, and forced Randolph, good as he was, into a second choice position. "Father" was bigger and swifter on defense, otherwise there was little if any difference in the two men. And Randolph finished out the season dimmed by the brilliance of the sophomore star.

"Now, just suppose Bob Randolph had another year to play," a Tech man remarked last night. "What a spot for the old boy in there with Stump and Mizell and Dunlap."

ANOTHER CASE.
Another case in which gridiron fate dealt a mean hand is found in the absence of Harvey Hill, sterling punter and all-around back at Georgia last year.

Four years ago on a stricken field in Birmingham, Harvey was sent into a hopelessly lost game against Alabama with one minute to play. Alabama punted from her five-yard line; the kick was blocked; Harvey Hill fell on the ball for a touchdown.

That brief gesture was all that Harvey Hill gave to Georgia that year in a varsity game. Yet it has cost him a certain position in the Bulldog backfield this year, where he would be a life-saver.

HARSH TO A FAULT.
Eligibility rules are harsh necessarily. The rule says "three years" and one minute of play is a year of eligibility. No other construction is possible if the Conference means to enforce the rule.

The bigwigs of the Conference often have even closer points of eligibility to consider than the case of Harvey Hill.

Dr. S. V. Sanford, as president of the Conference, had this one put to him recently: A basketball player was sent into a game in the last period. He reported to the scorer dutifully and to the referee. The man he re-
center circle and while the ball was in the air the whistle blew.

Now had the player actually played? I understand the Conference by majority vote ruled the player had played one year in that moment, although several of the committee favored overlooking the matter.

OUT OF ORDER.
The Actors' Equity in their row with movie producers have fired a volley at collegians who participate in football games for the screen.

University of Southern California players who have been helping make the latest college talkie have been attacked as "strikebreakers" by Equity leaders.

Equity has not a bare leg to stand on; no one can call the average college football player an actor, even if he gets paid for it.

NEVER SUSPECTS IT.
The only real good actor in football around here is "Stumpy" Thomason—and he has no earthly idea he is one.
He is an unconscious juvenile lead—or an unwitting villain if you take the word of several coaches from nearby states for it.

Alford Second $9,000 Is 'Gate'
In Doubles Shoot Of Strib's Bout

Augusta, Ga., September 3.—(AP)— Carol Hagler, of Augusta, defeated E.
Lanest, of Charleston, S. C., in a special shoot today to win the Cotton States Distance Handicap at the Augusta Gun Club. The men, shooting from the 20-yard line, tied at 95 breaks out of a possible 100, and in the extra shoot Hagler won by breaking 25 of 25.

L. M. Darden, of Statesboro, Ga., won the "Harry W. Quick Hundred," breaking 75 targets in a row with a 98, to nose out W. H. Lanier, of Augusta, and C. C. Rondree, of Egypt, Ga., with whom he finished in a triple tie yesterday.

Lanier won the Cotton States doubles championship, breaking 44 of the final 50 targets in a driving rain.
With his 44 of yesterday, Lanier had an 88 out of 100 possible targets in the doubles event.

Dr. H. X. Alford, of Atlanta, was second, and Paul R. Earle, of Starr,
S. C., third.

Lanier also was winner of the trophy for high gun for all targets in the three-day shoot.

The professional trophy was won by Arthur Cusack, of Tampa, Fla., who made an average of 92 in the four 100-target singles matches.

The Cotton States singles championship went also to Lanier today when he defeated Vasa Cates, of Brunswick, Ga., in the shoot-off in the "Harry W. Quick Hundred." The men, tied at the end of yesterday's shoot, agreed to decide the title by the outcome of the special shoot today.

Both broke 24 targets in the first two 25-target extra events, and Lanier took the championship, with 25 straight on the third, while Cates dropped one.

BENNY KARR PITCHES PELS
TO 6-1 VICTORY

Tommy Taylor, of New Orleans, Leads Attack on Climax.

New Orleans, La., September 3. — (Special.) — Climax Blethen, the league-leading hurler, was batted freely here this afternoon in almost every inning and New Orleans took the opening game of the series, 6 to 1. It was Blethen's ninth defeat against 21 victories.

Benny Karr, a former Atlanta hurler, opposed Blethen, and, although he was nicked for eight hits, they were well scattered and only one run was shoved across the plate.

Tom Taylor was the hitting star for New Orleans and his home run and double were enough to beat the Crackers, alone. Bonura also hit well and contributed three singles to the cause, and Powers was credited with two hits.

Atlanta started the scoring in the initial frame. Sheehan walked after Silva had popped out. Lee singled and Sheehan stopped at second. Cullop flied out and Sheehan went to third after the catch, and Lopez singled to send Sheehan home with the only Cracker run.

New Orleans tied the count in the third inning. With two out, Burnett, Powers and Eichrodt singled in succession, Burnett scoring during the attack. Blakesley forced Eichrodt at second to end the rally.

Two more were added to the Pels' total in the fourth on Bonura's single and "Taylor's home run.

The final New Orleans run was made in the eighth inning on hits by Bonura, Taylor and Anderson.

Atlanta had very few chances to score, and the first was the only inning in which the Crackers secured more than two safe blows.

Both Karr and Blethen struck out two men each and only three batters were walked, but the infielders had a busy day. Sheehan, Haley, Jones and Blethen handled 20 assists with only one error, while New Orleans was credited with 10 assists.

'Calamity Jane' Fails Bobby With Medal Honors in His Grasp

CHAMP MISSES SHORT PUTT FOR LOW SCORE

Jones Played More Relaxed Than Usual; Will Be Tough Today.

By George Von Elm,
National Amateur Champion in 1926.

Pebble Beach, Cal., September 3.—(AP)—The 32 qualifiers in the national amateur golf championship follows:

George J. Voigt, Douglass, N. Y., 80-78-158
Vincent Dolph, Portland, Ore., 75-83-158
John J. McHughes, San Francisco, 78-80-158
Eustace F. Storey, Great Britain, 76-83-159
Eddie Held, New York, 78-82-160

Don Mc, quiet and hard-hitting Oregon youngster, and Dr. O. F. Willing finished one shot back with 146's, and Gibson Dunlap, the flashy youth who electrified us all with a brilliant 68 yesterday, staged one of the gamiest exhibitions of his career to land home with a 78 and claim third-place medal honors for the two days with 147.

SCORING HIGHER.
Scoring today was much higher than I thought it would be, and despite the fact that I went one over par on eight of the last nine holes, I still couldn't figure why. The wind was a factor, but I failed to materialize and the Pebble Beach course was in great shape.

The galleries today weren't quite as large as yesterday, and I thought scores would be much lower. It was everything in general, but nothing in particular, unless too many of us decided to play safe. I think Dunlap's round yesterday was a much more brilliant any gallery has ever witnessed—and fewer than a dozen followed him around today. Dunlap started out to play safe and was short all through his round, and before he had finished he was fighting a great battle.

Playing safe likewise cost Homans an even greater place in the golfing world than he enjoyed in the past. A golfer in the competition able to keep up with Bobby Jones.

Homans was short off the seventeenth tee and his shot fell in to a trap. An explosion shot a dangerous ball, but when executed correctly does get results. Homans had the apron and the length of the green to explode at, but he failed to do so. His shot was too tight and the ball rolled back in. He then used his niblick, but required two putts for a five on the par three hole and played the eighteenth perfectly for a par five.

BOBBY MISSES PUTT.
Bobby Jones didn't make a sizeable putt all day, which means that "Calamity Jane" will start stroking in earnest tomorrow. Bobby played sound golf—he was even more consistent than usual, and while he rimmed the last four cups in birdie tries, he couldn't drop his ball.

Bobby returned to his very welcome breaks today. On the second hole his spoon hit the back of a dangerous trap, but bounced over and he had no trouble picking up his par. Against the hole he second shot skidded across the top of a bunker and stopped just off the green. He was short on the par three fifth, but executed a fine chip approach and ran down a short putt. Bobby got his first birdie after two booming woods that carried to the long sixth. This hole measures 592 yards, and the last hole is all uphill. Bobby was the only player today to reach this green in two.

Anything might have happened on the ocean bordered eighth when Bobby pushed his second down over the cliff to the edge of the ocean.

He played up a provisional ball and while I believe he could have played his first shot it would have been foolish to try it.

Dunlap fought a great battle today but the palm for gameness went to Young Phillips Finlay. This youngster was well off his game yesterday, and slipped way up to an 82. Today his start would have discouraged the best golfer in the world as he swept four strokes over par on the first three holes.

FIREWORKS START.
Then the fireworks started. He out-gamed par by playing the next 14 consecutive holes perfectly and then, just to show that he wasn't afraid of even the tricky and difficult eighteenth, pushed an approach shot under a tree, through a trap and up to within 10 feet of the pin. He made his putt for the hole and the hole was a score of 75. Which was just about the greatest exhibition of the week.

Don Mc continued to play perfect golf today, and marked up two fine 37's for a 74 to finish in a second place tie with 146. Dr. Willing had the other 146's.

Eddie Held won the play-off for the last place from Francis Brown, D. J. Armstrong and C. A. Griswold. Held was tied for the last place in the national amateur and today marked his fourth consecutive tangle.

Chick Evans didn't qualify. Chick hasn't been feeling very well and has never gotten started in California. Evans is a great player and his failure to land in the championship is a keen disappointment to all of us.

Match play starts tomorrow and watch for us. I don't relish eight-hole matches—and I can recall at least two good reasons why I shouldn't. Bobby had narrow escapes during the last two years, too.

If I can defeat Chandler Egan in the morning, I will meet either Rube Wilheim or Lee Pendergrass in the afternoon. Bobby must win from Johnny Goodman before meeting W. Lawson Little or Phillips Finlay.

Pannon Fans Fifteen To Win for Express
Playing hang-up ball behind almost perfect pitching, the Railway Express baseball club shut out the International Agricultural Corporation Monday afternoon by a 2-0 score.

Pannon, hurling for the victors, allowed two hits and whiffed 15 batters.

Humphries, his opponent on the mound, gave up only five hits, but lost the duel. Only one of the runs scored was earned, as Humphries balked with a man on third to secure the second tally.

Vandergriff hit in the pinch to drive in the first tally for the Express team.

Ancient Marks
Before the lively ball appeared in 1920 Lajie had a season's batting mark of 405 and Ty Cobb had twice exceeded the 400 mark with 420 and 410. In the national league eight players had batted over 400 for a season.

Jones Ties Homans For Amateur Lead

Tolley was still on the safe side, all for match play where he is at his best.

JONES IS FAVORITE.
Jones is still far and away the leading favorite, but he has no set-ups ahead with Sweetser, Von Elm, Tolley, Finlay, Voigt, Willing, Homans, Moe and Dunlap, to mention only a few. The risk of losing two or three, not a medal play test, where it is too dangerous to gamble. There is no sound judgment in saving one's self on a hole where one has a three. But in a match play they can shoot for the line and hammer the ball for the pin and let nature take its course.

Few could afford to do this today with the morning wind that came pounding in. The day grew quieter after noon when the wind died down. Almost nothing can happen here. The penalties on certain holes are terrific, but there is a big reward for those who are willing to gamble with bluff.

It is still Bobby Jones against the field. He is still the outstanding figure to beat, and they are even asking for odds of 2 to 1 on Jones, which are a reasonable price for a man who has survived match playing. He is the best player in the world, and he is still the favorite to win. He is still the favorite to win.

FINLAY'S GREAT EFFORT.
It will be interesting to see how Bobby Jones and George Von Elm survive the two 18-hole match play rounds. It is over the shorter route that both have suffered and neither can afford to slip on Wednesday against the high-class of this field.

The two qualifying days have been full of more spectacular features than any qualifying rounds I have ever seen, but there is promise of even better action when they swing into match play on Wednesday. There were 4 players who were in contention for one place to settle among the first 32 and Eddie Held, the Canadian champion from Lakeville made the grade with par. But the feature story of the day started earlier with Phil Finlay, of Redlands, Cal., and Harvard, Mass.

It is something more than a story of golf skill and club swinging. It is a story of family sentiment, heart and love.

Phil Finlay had been training for weeks to make a good showing at Pebble Beach. One of the nicest of the long hitters, he began working his game under fine control until he was marching consistently around Pebble Beach in something between 71 and 73.

PLAYS WITH HEART AND HEAD.
He had a fine start on Monday when he was two under at the fifth hole. But he had been badly overfought, at this point everything left him. He was 10 over par on the next five holes and he finished with an 82. He started out this morning and he was still struggling, and ragged. He began in a high, ocean-swept wind with a 5-5-7. The 7 came on a fairly simple 4-hole.

As far as any one could figure he was out of the championship completely with only the faintest ghost of a chance to get by because his swing had deserted him and the wind was roaring towards the sea. I happened to run across his father and mother just at this point and they were suffering more than the tall young Harvard golfer who had made his plans so far ahead to make a showing in this championship. From that point on I followed every shot, and whatever else happens I believe Finlay's finish is the big story of this tournament.

He had lost his swing and his frayed nerves were jumping sideways. So he fell back on the two great fundamentals of existence, brain and heart. In place of cracking and quitting and getting discouraged he began working with a cool head and a stout heart.

If there are any obstacles in life that are desperate they are beyond all hope if a cool head and a stout heart can't break them down.

Shoots Through Tree.
Finlay had his back to the wall facing the fourth hole with the wind increasing in volume as it churned the Pacific into a froth of whitecaps. It was at this point that the tall young Harvard golfer began his big fight. From that spot on he played the next 14 holes in even par to finish with a birdie four on the long 18th for a 75 on the round. He was four over par for the first three holes and 1 under par for the last 13 when his case looked to be so completely hopeless that no one even gave him a chance.

There are two holes on Finlay's round that are worth writing about. Coming to the hard 13th hole he sliced a long drive into heavy matted grass back of a spreading, venerable oak. The ball was six inches deep in thick, heavy turf. The oak was only 6 feet beyond the ball, a full yard. But, after studying the next shot with much care, Finlay picked an opening between two branches that were 18 or 20 inches apart. These branches were 12 or 12 feet in the air, where he had to get the ball up quickly.

From a heavy lie he hit a low, straight shot that went straight into the hole. The ball was six inches deep in thick, heavy turf. The oak was only 6 feet beyond the ball, a full yard. But, after studying the next shot with much care, Finlay picked an opening between two branches that were 18 or 20 inches apart. These branches were 12 or 12 feet in the air, where he had to get the ball up quickly.

G. M. A. ELEVEN WORKS AT CAMP IN MOUNTAINS

Other Schools Buckle Down to Grind in Short While.

By Roy White.
Activities in prep football circles have been humming for two days and by the middle of next week every prep football squad in the city will be hard at work making ready for the opening of the football season during the latter part of next month.

Georgia Military academy got the jump on the majority of the football teams in the country and has already been in training one week at Camp Highlands Lake, N. C., scene of the annual summer school activities of G. M. A., and immediately after the summer session was over August 26 between 35 and 40 football candidates remained in camp for ten days of preparatory training.

It is the first time in the history of the institution that an early training program has been mapped out and according to officials of the school, this year's plans have proved a big help to the candidates.

Sam Burbage, former Duke university coach is G. M. A.'s new coach for this season and he has been in charge of the preliminary training period in North Carolina.

It will not be Burbage's first year in local prep circles, for he was coach of G. M. A. five or six years ago, before he accepted a position with Duke (Trinity) college. He is a great athlete and a superb coach and has had good success with his football while at Duke.

REOPEN FRIDAY.
Coach Burbage and his G. M. A. candidates are expected to return to College Park Thursday night, and the school will officially open Friday morning. An intensive training program has been planned for next week.

Boys' High and Tech High, started their football practice session Monday afternoon, despite the fact that it was Labor Day and a circus was in town. About 35 candidates were out for the Boys' High eleven under the direction of Coach "Shorty" Doyal, former Georgia Tech star.

Claude Tolbert and his Tech High candidates are on another part of Piedmont Park Monday afternoon for the first workout and about 50 youngsters responded.

OTHERS START LATER.
University school for Boys and Peacock, will not start practice until next week. So again, one must wait for the start of the season.

Fulton High candidates were given their first instructions and lecture Tuesday morning at the school when Coach Hammack called for every candidate to line up at the school. Approximately 30 answered the first call and the first practice is scheduled to be held at Brisbane Park this afternoon.

HOLLAND AIDS TOLBERT.
Glenn Holland, former Georgia Tech star, is helping Coach Tolbert at Tech High. T. L. Alexander, who has been assisting in the coaching at Tech High for several years, was in hand for the initial practice and will help Tolbert throughout the season.

Tech High had one of the best teams in the city last year, but due to a large graduating class, Coach Tolbert will have to build an almost new team.

University School for Boys lost only four players by graduation and with a good bunch of reserves and freshmen back to pick from, practice sessions should be speeded up considerably next week.

Eight games have been scheduled for University School for Boys, and these will start in a definite date has not been set for each of the games.

BEAN CALLS BOYS.
Joe Bean, one of the best known prep coaches in this part of the country, will start his 26th season as coach at Marietta college this afternoon on the college campus on Ivy street.

Coach Bean is the oldest coach in Atlanta in the point of service and one of the oldest prep coaches in the south. He was a former president of the city prep league and has been one of the leading factors in prep sports in the city.

As Marietta candidates assemble for the first practice of the 1929 season, only a few vacancies will be found on the squad. Only one or two players were lost by graduation and Coach Bean is expecting this to be one of Marietta's successful of recent years.

Southern League Race Day-by-Day

Birmingham, with a double victory over Mobile, went back into the lead in the Southern league pennant race Tuesday. New Orleans beat Atlanta and Memphis beat Chattanooga to gain in the Rock. Birmingham is leading half games behind Birmingham in first place, eight and one-half games behind Nashville in second place, seven games behind New Orleans in third place and three games behind Memphis in fourth place.

Teams	Won	Lost	Pct.	Behind
Birmingham	83	57	.593
Nashville	82	58	.583	1
New Orleans	80	59	.576	2 1/2
Memphis	77	64	.546	6 1/2
ATLANTA	74	67	.525	9 1/2

BOB MISSES SHORT PUTT

simple expedient of sticking to the line, well away from the terrors of sand and ocean. Out in 34, two under par, his only mishap of note was on the twelfth, where he drove out of bounds and on the 21st-year-old of bounds and on the 21st-year-old of bounds, where he hit his tee shot into the sand and took two to reach the green.

Homans' most spectacular stunt was an eagle three on the 480-yard second hole, where he put his second shot less than 60 feet from the pin. Had he been able to get down his second of medium length putts, the Princeton ace would have the medal handed for him missed at least a half dozen chances for birdies.

There were no serious attacks upon Homans' leadership until Jones and Dunlap began the big afternoon parade. The crowd expected either or both to beat the early pace-setter, but high winds and sand proved their undoing. Jones was not as accurate down the fairways as he was the day before, but most surprising was the lack of his customary putting touch.

Bobby got into serious difficulties on only two holes, the eighth, where he shot his second into a sand gulley on the ocean's edge, and on the 500-yard fourteenth, where he hit his second shot out of bounds. On both he wound up with six to account for the loss of strokes by which he trailed Old Man Par but, like Homans, he missed a half dozen fine chances for birdies with putts averaging no more than six or eight feet, the kind that "Calamity Jane" usually makes look easy.

Dunlap started to skid at the outset, finding trouble on three of the first five holes as he hit wildly off the tees. Marvelous recoveries saved him, notably on the third, where he came out of a trap dead to the pin for his par 4. On the ninth he had to play his third to the green from the beach and on the eleventh, twelfth and thirteenth he encountered more hazards, while also misjudging his approach shots. On the eighteenth Dunlap hooked a drive that stopped rolling two feet from the ocean's edge, as a sample of how often he flurried with danger.

Petrels Get Good Prep Prospects
Thomasville, Ga., September 3.—Oglethorpe University got from Thomasville yesterday some first-class football material, in the persons of Edward Petty, McKay Patterson and Lorin Patterson, who will enter that institution of higher learning. Petty and Patterson have both been stars in the Thomasville high school team, and Whigham was a tackle on the team of Plunkett's School for Boys here. Patterson also played on the Plunkett team one year, as end and fullback. All these boys are good, and Petty and Patterson may be soundly mythical all-Southeast Georgia team. Petty, especially, has the making of a star of real magnitude.

Religion No Handicap

Andy Cohen, Jewish insider of the Giants, doesn't see religion or race a handicap to any one in sports. He says:

"Always be proud of your religion, and remember that if you mind your own business and conduct yourself as a gentleman you can earn the respect of all people."

FOUR GEORGIANS PLACE IN SHOOT AT CAMP PERRY

Improvement Shown; McDonald, Woody, Endicott, Bell Are High.

By A. K. Lankford.
Camp Perry, Ohio, September 3.—(Special).—Georgians showed some improvement in the day's shooting in the national meet here Tuesday, and four members of the team from the Cracker state were in the money in the two feature events of the day.

McDonald, captain of the civilian team, shot a 96 to take eighty-fifth place in the Leech cup match, while C. E. Woody, of the civilians, and Captain R. C. Endicott and Sergeant J. K. Bell, of the national guard team, placed in the N. R. A. rapid fire championship.

Tuesday's scores were much better than those previously registered by the Georgians, but they must still improve to make a real showing in the match.

Ten Perfect Scores Made in Shoot.

Camp Perry, Ohio, September 3.—(AP)—Aided by perfect firing weather, 10 men shot perfect scores of 50 in the members match of the national rifle matches here today.

The winner was decided by the number of shots in the inner circle of the bull's eye. Major L. A. Sprinkle, U. S. cavalry, Fort Riley, Kans., was first, and C. R. Ripley, of Denison, Ohio, second.

The other eight men with perfect scores were: Captain F. J. Hartle, New Jersey national guard; Lieutenant F. S. Gilman, marine corps; Sergeant A. W. Carlson, marine corps; A. J. Smith, Missouri national guard; Sergeant A. C. Crump, Arkansas national guard; Captain T. J. Kernacher, Pennsylvania national guard; Sergeant D. Hamscher, Philadelphia, U. S. infantry; and C. V. Shoemaker, Portland, Ore., national guard.

Ensign D. L. McDonald, U. S. navy, was awarded the navy match with best target out of four contestants, tied with 90 each. Lieutenant R. J. Prael, marines, was second; Corporal Maurice L. Moore, Fort George Wright, Washington, won the shoot-off with Sergeant F. L. Manion, Delaware national guard, for first place in the National Rifle Association's rapid fire match. Moore had a 48 against Manion's 43. Both had scores of 90 yesterday.

H. F. Johnson, Joliet, Ill., with 196 out of a possible 200, won the individual long range match. The individual short range match went to L. A. Williams, navy, Ohio, with a score of 399 out of a possible 400.

Badger Coaches Ready for Job

Madison, Wis., September 3.—The football destiny of the 1929 University of Wisconsin varsity football team lies with four men, one of whom will be coaching for the first time.

Glenn F. Thistlethwaite, scholarly and pessimistic head coach, is generalissimo of the Badger operations, and under him are L. B. (Stub) Allison, line coach; Frank (Bo) Cuisinier, backfield coach; and Campbell Dickson, end coach.

The Wisconsin chief begins his third year here September 15 when he calls his varsity squad of 55 players to report for the fall practice. In that time he has brought the Badger coaching staff from last place in the Western conference football race to runner-up last year. The 1928 team was in the race until the final game, being at the top of the heap until then.

Before coming to Wisconsin Thistlethwaite coached at Northwestern university and there, as here, brought a last-place football team to Big Ten leadership. Previous to 1922, when he went to Northwestern, Thistlethwaite coached for nine years at Oak Park, Ill. high school, his teams there winning four major championships. After graduating from Earlham, Ind., college the Badger head coach taught football at Illinois college, Jacksonville, Ill., and at his alma mater, Notre Dame, who has been end coach for the last two years, besides line coach as successor to Tom Lieb, who has returned to his alma mater, Notre Dame, as assistant to Knute K. Rockne.

"Stub," as he is familiarly known, was one of Carlson college's most famous athletes. While at the Northfield (Minn.) school Allison captained three teams. He served in the World War and in 1918 went to the University of Washington and there where he served as an assistant coach in three sports.

Jim Brooke and Doug Graydon Join Yellow Jackets At Bowl

TECH SETTLES DOWN TO WORK ON SECOND DAY

Alex Lectures to Boys and Then Puts Them Through Paces.

By Herb Clark.

Some ten more Jackets-to-be reported to Coach Alexander at Tech's Rose Bowl Tuesday afternoon in the second day's workout for the Engineers.

Outstanding among the arrivals was Jim Brooke, veteran junior punter, who was due here Monday but who was delayed. Brooke, with one full season of experience as a regular in the line, is counted on to step out in a first-string berth this fall.

Doug Graydon, sophomore halfback who flashed to great heights on the rat team last year, also reported to fight for a place in the line-up.

First days on the gridiron, like first nights in the theatre, are occasions of the first water, calling for the presence of a Whelan and a blare of a band. Tech's Yellow Jackets went through that experience Tuesday.

SETTLE DOWN TO WORK. Second day—and second night—though, are routine. Back-breaking work which is but a forerunner of the toil to come. And the Jackets had that experience Tuesday.

They have settled down to the long, long grind, and with just a little better than a month in which to become welded into a machine, a team of power and versatility capable of living up to Tech's all-time reputation—which took an upward jump last season—they are in for work in no small measure for the space of that month and the two to follow it.

Tuesday Coach Alexander led his charges into the grandstand at Grant field for a short lecture in which he outlined the work to be done and took up a discussion of the prospects, the schedule, what he hoped to do, and what must be done.

LONG PRACTICE. Then it was the quarter-mile trot to the new Rose Bowl field for the embryo Jackets. The session on the practice field lasted for the better part of two hours, and had the boys crying for mercy when they took up the journey to the dressing room again. The work was routine.

Alex led the Jackets through a period of setting up exercises which started them on their afternoon of puffing exertion. Reaching for the sky, shadow-boxing, knee-lifting, rolling over and over on the grass, and other complicated maneuvers as an appetizer for the session of instruction in the fundamentals of the grid game.

ROBINSON BUSY. Captain Robinson, in charge of the flankers, put his fledglings through a session on pass work and later chased them over for practice on covering punts. The backs picked up fumbles for a time and then the punters went to work with their toes while

Gunning for "Father's" Fullback Berth

Coach Lou Little Opens Practice

Ocean City, N. J., September 3.—(AP)—Coach Lou Little and the Georgetown university football squad reached here today and a short time after their arrival the candidates were out for light limbering up exercises. There are several members of last year's great eleven in the outfit this year, among them being Prencival, Mooney, Barabas, Wynkoop, Hudak and Corcovano.

Coach Little said he thought the team would compare favorably with last year's. The present squad includes 25 freshmen. It will remain here until September 15.

The ball-toters stepped down the long line of would-be tacklers, who, however, did no actual hitting. Alex took Frink, Dunsap, Flowers and Pippin under his wing with Captain Harrell Rusk in his drive to develop quarterbacks for the Tornado. Each of these boys seems to have the necessary qualifications for the post and each handled the duties well Tuesday.

Bill Fincher, with half a line gone to work in earnest to develop the needed material yesterday. He had a large squad at his disposal and put them through their paces in a long session. Word around the field is to the effect that if it is humanly possible to have a line for the jacket team, that line will be in existence and functioning well by the time the Mississippi Aggie game is called on October 5.

Return of Veterans Boosts Dixie Teams

Last Year's Stars Join Teams As Second Day of Football Work Begins.

Brain and brawn got down to serious work on Southern conference football gridirons Tuesday. The official opening of 1929 fall football schools saw many hold-over letter men punch the clock at initial practice sessions, and scores of sophomores, hoping to be picked to stop the gaps in the ranks of last year's veterans, swarmed out for first limbering-up exercises.

Coach Alexander of Georgia Tech, was faced with the task of filling the greatest number of these gaps. Although Captain Rusk, "Stumpy" Thomson and others who made football history on the Pacific coast scampened out on Grant field when the first whistle blew, Alexander looked over new men to fill the shoes of Peter Pund, "Father" Lumpkin, Brennon, Wadley, Speer and other lost axes of the 1928 machine. Light exercises and signal practice was the order of the day.

Forty men reported to Wallace Wade at Alabama, where hopes are high for another championship for the Crimson Tide. The only exception to general good health and hopes was Jess Eberdt, last year's center, who is suffering with stomach trouble and is expected to be out a few days.

Coach Joe Holsinger, backfield coach at the University of Florida, saw a promising situation for the Gators. Many fine backs are available for the Gainesville squad and Clyde Crabtree, who found considerable opposition to his quarterback berth. The Florida aggregation had a wealth of new material.

Auburn's Plainsmen reported 43 strong yesterday with only two letter men still to arrive. Punting and drop kicking occupied the morning session and in the afternoon four full team runs signalled.

Dalrymple, a great end prospect, joined the Tulane training forces in a double workout, while Bankston, 205-pound sophomore line prospect, arrived on last year's freshman team, also arrived. Banker was expected to arrive tomorrow. The pass and defense was stressed in today's workouts.

The arrival in camp yesterday of Barnett, fullback, and Jacobs, quarterback, swelled the total of monogram men to 12 at the Lexington, proving grounds at Washington and Lee. Candidates were working well under Coach Oberst's Rockne system, which has replaced the use of the Warner system.

A squad of 57, including 13 letter men reported to Coach Chuck Collins of North Carolina, for the Tarheel's first organized practice. A stiff round of calisthenics, morning and afternoon, with a score more expected within the next few days. Head Coach Andy Gustafson kept an eye open for backs to replace Frank Peake and other fleet stars of last year. Considerable strong material was on hand to replace lost line veterans.

Eugene McEver, halfback, reported yesterday and found a squad of 36 candidates for the Tennessee varsity in action. Coach Neyland held to his plan of working the squad in three teams with light practice until all vacation kinks are ironed out.

Other schools of the conference went through light exercises, signal practice and passing on the initial workouts.

The "Pony Express" of Virginia Polytechnic institute went into serious practice with a squad of 30 candidates, with a score more expected within the next few days. Head Coach Andy Gustafson kept an eye open for backs to replace Frank Peake and other fleet stars of last year. Considerable strong material was on hand to replace lost line veterans.

AUBURN SQUAD FILLS RAPIDLY

Two Letter Men Missing as Tigers Swing Into Grind.

Auburn, Ala., September 3.—Auburn's 1929 football contingent swelled to 43 Tuesday afternoon with the arrival of Joe Burt, guard; Horace Jacobs, halfback; Dave Mosely, end; and Melford Spidler, fullback. Only two letter men are missing from the Tiger ranks and they are expected any day.

Punting, passing and drop-kicking occupied the major part of both practice sessions, but the afternoon workout looked more like a midseason practice as the team ran signals for over 30 minutes.

Four "A" men are on hand for guard, which should eliminate Coach Bohler's guard worries. None of the veterans in the Tiger line have, however, had much experience at tackle or end. Both of these positions will have to be filled by newcomers at the early start of the season.

John Wilson, Louis Jacobs, Farlington, Newton and Stewart are the outstanding tackles in uniform to date.

If Coach Bohler can fill the vacancies at end and tackle, the Plainsmen should be a much better team than they were last season since veterans will take care of center and guards, and outstanding freshmen, along with two "A" men should take care of the ball-toting department without any trouble.

New Stars Swell Tulane's Squad.

New Orleans, La., September 3.—Tulane's Big Green squad continued to increase in size today with Gerald Dalrymple, crack end prospect; Charlan Young, Bankston and Stroble joining in the morning workout. After a two-hour session in the morning in which Coach Bernie Bierman had the greenie line charged and the whole team going through a pass defense drill, the squad was dismissed until 3:30 p. m. when another long session was in order.

Dalrymple had not been expected to appear from Little Rock until next week but arrived early. Bankston is a 205-pound line sensation gained from last year's frosh, while Young is lefty and experienced. Bierman is figuring on working him either in the line or backfield. Stroble was a freshman end last year.

Captain Billy Banker is expected in camp tomorrow. Some eleven letter men already have reported while the squad is expected to number 50 before the week is over. Equipment for about 35 has been issued to date.

Philadelphia, September 3.—(AP)—Miss Norma Taubel, of New York, today created the first upset in the girls' national tennis tournament at the Philadelphia Cricket Club by defeating Miss Olive Wade, of Toronto, 6-0, 6-3, in the second round.

Two Californians and one Boston girl advanced to the quarter final round. They were Helen Marlowe, Hollywood; Evelyn Parsons, Palo Alto, and Virginia Rice, Boston.

Miss Marlowe, Pacific coast junior champion, scored a 6-1, 6-1 victory over Audrey Ayres, Long Island. Miss Parsons put out Katherine Winthrop, Boston, 6-0, 6-1, and Miss Rice eliminated Helen Boehn, Malden, Mass., 6-1, 6-2, 6-1.

The other favorites continued to advance. Little Sarah Palmer, Boston, 16-year-old defender of the title, conquered Betty Wannaman, Philadelphia, in the second round, 6-0, 6-0. Other second round winners were: Christine Babcock, Los Angeles, who defeated Lucy J. Hedberg, Glenview, Ill., 6-0, 6-4; Grace Surber, New York City, who beat Carolyn Roberts, New Rochelle, N. Y., 6-4, 5-7, 6-4; and Marjorie Newhall, Philadelphia, who eliminated Louise Heary, Philadelphia, 6-0, 6-1.

May Buy Bool.

Connie Mack, it is rumored, will buy Al Root, slugging catcher, from the Baltimore Orioles. Washington sold Bool to Baltimore.

Will He Do It?

Ty Cobb's friends say he was offered the management of the Brooklyn club last spring and has been offered the same job for 1930.

Lively Ball Costs

The lively ball is also expensive. Harry Hinchman, manager of the Reading Club, of the International league, says:

"With the lively ball the clubs in this league have to carry nine and ten pitchers instead of six or seven. In these days you can scarcely count on the starting pitcher going the route. These extra pitchers cost each club about $15,000 a year in salaries."

TIDE SETTLES TO REAL WORK AT TUSCALOOSA

Crimson Crew Spends Long Afternoon in Signal Drill.

Tuscaloosa, Ala., September 3.—(Special).—Four full teams of recruits took the field in a flashy passing attack Wednesday morning as Alabama's Crimson Tiders fell in line in the third day of preparation for the 1929 football season. Showers shoved them under shelter Wednesday afternoon as the session got under way with their position work, charging and limbering up exercises.

The morning session began with group instruction, as Coach Wallace Wade had his 38 backs aside and spent the greater part of the morning teaching them the fine points of starting and brush blocking. He was assisted by Earl Smith, captain of the 1928 Crimson Tide and stellar end, who has finished his playing years at Alabama.

Coach Jess Neely tutored the ends, giving them drills in blocking and a little pass work.

The linemen were divided into three groups in charge of Coaches Crisp, Hager and Prosser. They were given a handsome dish of charging, blocking and tackling. The teams will begin scrimmage assignments the latter part of the week or early next week, depending upon developments and weather conditions.

Albert Elmore, promising reserve end from the 1928 eleven, was on the bench suffering from boils received during the summer months. He is probably the only disability of any description among the recruits.

The first-string backfield showed plenty of beef as well as speed among its ranks. Ralph McElrath, heaviest of the quartet, was at right half. Tony Holm, star fullback of last year, was at his old position as left half.

Years when he was a veritable headache to Southern Conference opponents. Monk Campbell, the elusive game, the spin player, was at left half, and Captain Billy Hicks, one of the toughest little fellows in Dixie, drew the signal-calling job.

Monroe Team Is Near Title

Monroe, Ga., September 3.—Monroe's Tigers, baseball representatives of the Monroe Cotton Mills, stands virtually assured of the Southeast Georgia League pennant this week as a result of their double win here Saturday over the Gainesville Mills.

The win came in the second game of the loop before Saturday's double-header, the Tigers won the first game 3 to 2 and the second 3 to 0 to raise themselves to the top of the pack with a rating of .688. Meanwhile the Gators were losing to Whitehall Mills, Athens, 5-5, and slipping back to a rating of .625, a tie for second place with Commerce.

Two more games remain on Monroe's schedule, and these will determine this city's championship chances. Helen will be played here Sunday, and Whitehall the following Saturday. Should Monroe take both, the pennant will be hers by one point. Should she take one and lose the other, there will be a tie with Commerce. Losing both, she will lose the title to Chicago.

"Big Bob" Edwards, flinging ace of "Reds" at Barron's Aggie last spring, roamed rampant through Monroe's two victories Saturday. His brilliant and steady pitching won the first game, a hotly-fought skirmish, and the second game, in which Bob set a new record, was deep in extra innings, scoreless on both sides, when Bob blasted out a homer with two on to win and end the game.

Barons Take Pair From Bears and Regain Southern Lead

VOLS DEFEATED BY TRAVELERS AND DROP BACK

Birmingham Wins Twin Bill, 9-4 and 4-0—Rocks Romp, 5-1.

Birmingham, Ala., September 3.—(AP)—Birmingham slipped back into first place in the Southern pennant chase today by winning both ends of a double bill from Mobile while Nashville was losing to Little Rock. Dick Ludolph pitched the Barons to a 9-to-5 victory in the first game and Bunney Hearn blanked the Bears, 4 to 0, to take the nightcap.

In the first game Jiggs Black, Ernie Smith and Bennett pooled out three hits apiece to register half of the Barons' eighteen hits. Ludolph gave up 12 hits. Hearn pitched masterful ball in the abbreviated affair, but injured his hand in the seventh inning and gave way to Ray Caldwell who finished the inning and the game.

Today's double victory placed Birmingham a full game ahead of Nashville and two and one-half games ahead of the first place New Orleans Pelicans.

Pitt Looks Good
Dr. John Hain (Jack) Sutherland, football coach at Pitt, isn't given to boasting. He's a conservative and when he says the following he probably looks for a season of no defeat: "We lost only three regulars from last season. We have good sophomore material coming up for the varsity. Our veterans are players of unusual ability. Therefore, it seems as though we ought to have a good year."

Prospects
Harold "Shorty" Alquist, former Minnesota star, has great prospects at Augusta college. Last year he brought the team from last place to second in the Little Nineteen.

Tobacco Loop Series Is Set

Waycross, September 3.—At a meeting of the board of directors of the Bright Leaf Tobacco League, held at the local Y. M. C. A., the differences of the amateur circuit were settled to the satisfaction of the member clubs. As a result of a unanimous agreement, the moguls decided to allow Homerville and Jessup to play a three-game series, the winner of two contests to be declared the second half champion.

C. E. Phillips, Waycross director, then invited the two clubs to play the series in Waycross and the invitation was accepted by both clubs. The contests for the championship are slated to be played on September 4, 5 and 6.

The post-season series between Homerville and Jessup makes necessary the postponing of the starting date of the championship series, the date having been postponed until September 6. Glenville is first half champion.

TOM LOUGHRAN RELINQUISHES CHAMPIONSHIP

Champion Reviews Reign; Gave Everyone Crack at His Title.

By Tommy Loughran, Heavyweight Contender.
New York, September 3.—This morning my manager, Joe Smith, officially resigned my light heavyweight crown of pugilism to the New York Boxing Commission.

Joe is returning it to the board because it was the first and only claim to this title. It also was instrumental in obtaining for me my chance in the biggest class by permitting me to be matched with Jack Sharkey before I relinquished the crown.

I have never been fortunate enough to win a championship directly from a title-holder. The bout between Mike McTigue and Joe Louis, Stuyvesant Garden October 7, 1927, was authorized by the New York commission to be for the world's championship. At that time Jimmy Slattery and Leo Lomski were at the forefront of the contenders and conceded by many experts to be the best of the field.

MEANING OF "CHAMP." The word "champion" has always conveyed to me the idea of the world's best. I had to meet these men to prove to myself that I really was light heavyweight champion in fact as well as name.

The following month Pat McCarthy and I boxed a 10-rounder in Philadelphia. December 12 Jimmy Slattery, then the National Boxing Association champion, and I, the New York champion, went 15 rounds to a decision, which I won.

On January 6, just 24 days later, I fought Leo Lomski and almost met my Waterloo. Four bouts, three 15-rounders at an unusual weight, all in a day less than three months, nearly undermined my health and my doctor ordered me to rest for three months.

From the Lomski bout on I have always felt the part of a champion and never hesitated at giving the boys a chance to win the title from me.

MANY GOOD ONES. At the present time there are plenty of boys in the class to keep interest in it. At this time a dark horse, George Courtney, looks to be the best of the field. He is regarded as a big middleweight, but he never could scale 160 pounds and be strong, at least within the last 18 months.

Courtney was the victim of a safety first champion, who killed interest in the class by meeting only hand-picked contenders, whose only chance of getting the crown would be to win on a foul. Consequently, George was given the go-by.

Now that champion, Mickey Walker, is claiming the crown I have just passed on. He had a chance to win it last night when he met in Chicago. To the condition I was in following a severe illness, Lomski, Braddock or Courtney would have knocked me for a goal in two or three rounds that night, but I won handily from Walker.

SHOULD DEFEND TITLE. In the interest of the boys in the 160-pound class, Walker should be forced to defend his crown. I pass it on. There are plenty of good men in that division just being kept on a treadmill because they are too good. Rene De Vos or Ace Hudkins would be almost certain winners of the title if they could get the opportunity, but what a price they would have to pay to get the chance!

Now that I am leaving the light-heavyweight class, I do so with a heart-felt regard towards it because of the success I met in it. To the contenders I offer my best wishes and friendship and may the best man win. To them I say I face the same situation in the bigger class and realize your feelings and understand the struggle we are facing.

In all my defense of the 175-pound diadem the men I met always fought me in a clean and fair manner and friendliness was the predominant feeling. I have towards each of them.

The best of luck to them all.

THE GUMPS—ADIEU, LAKE GENEVA

THE HAWK

By ROY VICKERS

SYNOPSIS.
 Douglas Dorling, a young British peer, is sent to Dartmoor prison on the perjured testimony of Cora Sefton, an unscrupulous woman in love with him. In revenge, because he snubbed her advances, she swears she will kill a policeman during a night club raid.
 Dorling is a famous aviator, but to keep his knowledge from his mother and spare her worry, he has been using the assumed name of Douglas Harris; and as Douglas Harris he is tried and convicted.
 While the verdicts are at work in a hurry, Douglas finds a tobacco tin containing an unsigned note, telling him he will be rescued the next day. He follows directions and escapes in a furniture van. He is saved, dressed in new clothes, and driven to the Gunter hotel where to his amazement he is greeted by Cora Sefton. She is registered as his wife.
 Cecil Warren, the old Dorling house, is now staying at the Gunter hotel, and is amused when she sees him embraced by her. She jumps to the conclusion that he has been secretly married, and leaves London at once, disillusioned and heart-broken.
 The manager of the hotel overhears Sir Arthur Granston, Douglas's old friend, greet him as Lord Dorling. He asks if Mrs. Sefton is Lady Dorling, and when Douglas says he is not, he requests that they leave at once.

INSTALLMENT IX.
IN A TIGHT CORNER.

A little too late Dorling realized that he was in a tight corner. There could be no doubt that the manager intended to make him leave the hotel. It was now a little after 10. The divided attention of the patrols could be given to any car traveling at that time of night.

"You may have heard Sir Aylmer address me by my first name. He was an old friend of my father's. Do you think it would please him, if you were to call in the police to throw me out?"

"My lord, I'm not in a position to argue," said the manager, plaintively. "I am a salaried servant, and my orders are to take immediate action in the case of an unmarried couple."

"Unmarried?" cried Dorling, then laughed. "O, I see. If you remember, you asked me whether Mrs. Sefton was Lady Dorling. And I said so. So you jump to the conclusion that we can't be married. If you had said 'Is Mrs. Sefton your wife?' I would have answered 'yes'."

"Really, my lord, I hardly follow." "If you have a Burke's peerage here and if you will look me up in it, you will find I am entitled to call myself Sefton," he bluffed, and then, with a touch of hauteur, "For reasons I have no intention of giving you, we are married quietly—at the Westminster registrar's office three weeks ago. You can verify this by wire tomorrow morning. Our marriage is a secret, but as there being anything further about it, my mother, Lady Dorling, is coming here to lunch with us tomorrow. By the way, please say that we have a large enough table for three."

"Very good, my lord, I—" "I don't propose to carry the matter further—unless you do," snapped Dorling. "You can send that wire tomorrow and Lady Dorling will confirm my statement. That she was a witness. Good night."

"Good night, my lord." Dorling left the office, and returned to the lounge. He cast his eyes over a litter of reference books. There were time tables, local directories, road guides.

"Thank heaven, they haven't got a 'Peerage'!" he thought. "Cora had suddenly become more of a problem than ever. Intuition warned him to do everything in his power to prevent her from knowing Dorling was really Lord Dorling."

The Granstons had made clear that the character of Lord Dorling was as yet untouched by the breath of scandal. He was assumed to have been in Africa. Yet Cora would have to be told something—for assuredly when lunch time came the following day, and no Lady Dorling with it, they would be turned out—into the arms of the patrol.

"I'm not in shape for this kind of thing tonight," ran his thoughts, as he went upstairs. "Better sleep on it."

To his relief she was not in the sitting room, and quietly shut and locked the door.

Dorling awoke full of vigor. He was ready to play his part in the strange game of chance in which he was to pit his nimbleness and good fortune against the organized might of society.

"The Granstons mustn't see me at breakfast with Cora," he told himself. "Moreover, Cora must not see me with the Granstons."

He rang the bell, and when the chambermaid appeared, "I will have breakfast in bed—as soon as possible, please," he ordered.

When he strolled into the sitting room he could hear Cora moving about in the adjoining room.

"May as well inspect the cordon," he thought.

To his surprise, the cordon was no longer there. There was not even a policeman on duty.

The morning's paper lay on the table. A headline screamed across the main news sheet.

DOUG HARRIS ESCAPES FROM DARTMOOR SLIPS THROUGH CORDON IN STOLEN CAR.

MYSTERY.

It was then that Cora came into the room.

"I say, come and look at this!" he invited. "What's this wonderful stuff about a stolen car?"

"Don't speak so loudly!" she warned. "A real herring, of course! The car was 'stolen' from one of my friends—who took care not to discover the theft too soon. It was to be driven to London and abandoned in a side street in Piccadilly with the prison clothing on board."

"That's it!" he exclaimed. "That's half a column on how the policeman's suspicions were aroused by the abandoned car."

"They've swallowed it whole!" said Cora, delightedly. "Here's the explanation of how you must have worked your way over the moon after leaving the furniture van and how you slipped into Tavistock through a farm. Look here: A description of the convict was telegraphed for all parts and there can be no doubt that the car was actually stopped on the outskirts of Tavistock and again at Okehampton. It was not known at this time that the car had been stolen. Ironically enough, a policeman at Okehampton remembers now that one driver he stopped was wearing a macintosh. His description of the car tallies with that of the stolen car."

"What's this about the furniture van?" asked Dorling.

"That's the weak spot," she answered. "It was decided the van would have to be burned or else they would have found that the car had been inside. Of course, Hartock's have since denied it was one of their vans. The van tells them you must have been helped—but it doesn't tell them how, which is the important point for us."

"Devious good idea of yours—having the clothing 'found' in London," he explained. "That explains why they've withdrawn the patrol. We can go to London this morning."

"No," said Cora firmly. "The patrol of warders may have been withdrawn, but we don't know what the police are doing on the roads. We may have to stay here several days yet."

Dorling scowled. There was the difficulty of explaining that they would shortly be forced to leave the hotel—without giving her the real reason.

He turned a page of the paper and then, "I say, look at that," he exclaimed, uneasily.

A whole page was devoted to pictures of himself. There were photographs of him grinning in a crash helmet, a photograph of him shaking hands with the prime minister, being received by royalty.

"Douglas Harris," he read, "whose name was once on everyone's lips as our most intrepid aviator, is shown below in a series of photographs illustrating various events in his career. In a manner which one can admire without approving, he has again shown that he possesses nerves of steel and inevitably he will receive a certain amount of sympathy from the kind-hearted. Nevertheless, it is the duty of every man and woman should be seen and recognized Douglas Harris, immediately to inform the police."

"I thought of that," said Cora. "I took the trouble to make sure that none of the photographic agencies had a studio photograph of you. There doesn't appear to be one in existence."

There had been good reasons why he should avoid photographers—chief of which was the fear lest his mother should find out that he was Doug Harris.

"In each of these photographs you're in air right-on," she went on. "And in each of them you're grinning like a cheshire cat. There's not the faintest danger there. Let's go down to breakfast."

"You go. I've had mine," he said, indifferently.

"Douglas! How unkind of you! I was looking forward to breakfast together."

"I don't feel kind," Cora—only a bit puzzled as to why you are spending all this money and taking all this risk for me."

"Douglas! Can't you guess?" "No," she said.

The panther, feeling the weight upon him diminish, quickly crawled from beneath the fallen tree trunk. And as Tarzan let the tree fall back to earth, the two beasts turned to look at each other. A grim smile played upon the ape-man's lips. Fear was a thing unknown to him. Yet he knew that he had taken his life in his hands to free this savage jungle fellow.

It would not have surprised him had he cat sprung upon him the instant it had been released. But it did not do so. As Tarzan climbed out of the maze of tangled branches the panther stepped warily aside. After a moment's hesitation, the ape-man quietly went on through the jungle. To his surprise, the panther followed on behind him, like a dog following its master.

At length Tarzan decided that Sheets was following him because of friendly feeling. After in the midst of the scene of a deer seat Tarzan into the trees. When he had dropped his nose about the animal's neck, he called to Sheets, using a purr similar to that which he had heard panthers make when they hunted in pairs. Almost immediately Sheets came bounding through the underbrush.

At sight of the carcass at Bars and the smell of blood, the panther gave forth a shrill scream of hunger. Before Tarzan had cooked his portion, he tossed Sheets some of the raw meat, and soon the two were feeding side by side. For several days this strangely assorted pair roamed the jungle together. When one made a kill, he called the other and thus they fed well and often.

Girl Who "Died for Love"

Is Still Unclaimed Here

With her identity still unestablished, the body of the young woman who drank poison Monday at 228 Sydney street after she had been jilted by her sweetheart, now lies at the undertaking establishment of J. Austin Dillon Company awaiting word from relatives or friends as to funeral arrangements. At a late hour Tuesday night no message had been received.

In the meantime police have been puzzled over the numerous names used by the girl. M. A. Allen, who employed her to act as governess for his children, said she had given him the name of Mae Lovejoy. Her sweetheart, he says, declared her real name was Mary Falana, and that her name formerly was in Social Circle. Before dying at Grady hospital she said she was Rose Hamilton. A girl friend knew her as Rose Andrews. An inquest was held Tuesday afternoon at the Dillon undertaking establishment and a verdict of "suicide" was returned. The inquest shed light upon the girl's identity or affairs. Mr. Allen, at whose home the girl took the poison dose, was one of the principal witnesses. He already had told the police what he knew of the affair.

He said that the girl had been dependent for some time and that Saturday night at her request he drove her in his auto to Social Circle to meet her sweetheart. When they arrived there he refused to see her, Allen said.

Monday the girl threatened to kill herself, according to his story, and he did all he could to dissuade her. He left home believing she had abandoned her plan, at least temporarily, and a little later learned that she had taken the poison.

The victim is believed to have relatives in Yakima and in Manchester, but so far they have not been heard from.

YOUTH ESCAPING FROM HOSPITAL BELIEVED GHOST

Brooklyn, N. Y., September 3.—(United News.)—The ghost of Albany street, which caused excitement last night when its eerie form flashed through a large part of Brooklyn in almost any flat, was revealed to-day as Bernard Goldstein, 10, who fled from a hospital in a nightshirt.

Goldstein was to be operated on tomorrow, but decided he liked home better than hospital. He jumped through a ground-floor window and ran all the way to the home of a friend of the family. Hospital authorities, unable to persuade Bernard to return, asked his father to send back the nightshirt.

Bay City, Mich., September 3.—(United News.)—The attempt of a 78-year-old woman, held on bootlegging charges, to escape from the county jail, resulted in her death when she fell from a third floor window and fractured her skull.

The woman, Mrs. Mattie Kelley, was arrested at Saginaw, Mich., last Friday by federal authorities who raided her place. She was sent to the jail here when she was unable to post bond.

She tied together a piece of clothing and an electric cord in her attempt to lower herself from the window. She crawled out of the window, but slipped when she started to lower herself.

Petty said he was communicating with the customs department heads in Washington on the subject. He plans to make airplanes a regular division of the customs border patrol which now patrols the border in boats and automobiles.

Two confiscated planes, one taken from an alien smuggler and the other from a rum runner, will be the nucleus of the prohibition air force. Petty now is awaiting a report of the mechanical condition of the ships which are held at Sleaford field, Mr. Clements, Mich.

The use of planes in stopping rum smuggling has been considered for some time in various parts of the country but Petty's action is the first concrete effort to create a dry navy in the air.

Plans for the establishment of an airplane patrol over the Detroit river, Lake Erie and Lake St. Clair are being made by Walter S. Petty, collector of customs, it was learned tonight.

The use of planes in stopping rum smuggling has been considered for some time in various parts of the country but Petty's action is the first concrete effort to create a dry navy in the air.

Plans for the establishment of an airplane patrol over the Detroit river, Lake Erie and Lake St. Clair are being made by Walter S. Petty, collector of customs, it was learned tonight.

Petty said he was communicating with the customs department heads in Washington on the subject. He plans to make airplanes a regular division of the customs border patrol which now patrols the border in boats and automobiles.

Two confiscated planes, one taken from an alien smuggler and the other from a rum runner, will be the nucleus of the prohibition air force. Petty now is awaiting a report of the mechanical condition of the ships which are held at Sleaford field, Mr. Clements, Mich.

HINES SAYS SURVEY WILL AID VETERANS

Washington, September 3.—(AP)—Brig. Gen. Frank T. Hines, director of the veterans' bureau, said today that a survey is now going forward to determine the probable cost of facilities to provide care of veterans' ill kinds, without discrimination, which is now provided by law between cases resulting directly from war service and ill suffered by veterans since without direct connection with active service.

Whether legislation will be recommended to congress by the bureau to give care to ill cases indiscriminately has not yet been indicated. General Hines declined to express his own attitude. It is considered likely that the veterans' bureau might lay before congress estimates of the cost of the additional service to veterans suffering from post-war ailments.

Commenting on the statement yesterday of William J. Murphy, assistant commander of the Disabled American Veterans, General Hines said the bureau is not making clear the kind of cases for which more hospital beds than are now contemplated will be needed, nor did it explain that under present legislation the bureau is obliged to distinguish between the two.

To the assertion that hospitals would not be adequate in facilities to care for the peak load of mental cases in 1947—at which time General Hines said it would be reached—he said here again confusion appeared to be widespread.

"The present and contemplated program of the bureau," he said, "would adequately care for all cases which the bureau is at present obliged to hospitalize, as they increase in number."

Bay City, Mich., September 3.—(United News.)—The attempt of a 78-year-old woman, held on bootlegging charges, to escape from the county jail, resulted in her death when she fell from a third floor window and fractured her skull.

The woman, Mrs. Mattie Kelley, was arrested at Saginaw, Mich., last Friday by federal authorities who raided her place. She was sent to the jail here when she was unable to post bond.

She tied together a piece of clothing and an electric cord in her attempt to lower herself from the window. She crawled out of the window, but slipped when she started to lower herself.
